

Dingeldey honored by Canton board

By RICHARD GOLD

CANTON—Philip Dingeldey bowed out of public life gracefully Tuesday night after 32 years of service. Stating "the pleasure was all mine," he accepted two awards of appreciation, one presented by Brian Arrowsmith of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners and one presented by John Flodin, township clerk. The meeting was interrupted by Trustee Richard Wolfe soon after it got under way and Arrowsmith read a statement honoring Dingeldey personally and professionally, citing his many civic achievements and years of service. The award was placed in its entirety into the minutes of the township board meeting. Dingeldey, deeply moved, responded, "I've enjoyed this job immensely—I've enjoyed watching Canton grow and I've enjoyed all the people I've met working for the township and that has been my greatest pleasure—all the people this job has allowed me to meet." As soon as Dingeldey sat down, Flodin rose and also made a presentation on behalf of the township board, again honoring the retiring supervisor. Dingeldey smiled and said, "this is getting embarrassing. I never expected anything like this tonight." He continued, "You know John is like a brother to me, we've worked together a long time and I've kind of dreaded this last meeting—but now I can go out feeling real good." The outgoing supervisor vowed to stay in Canton and help when and where he is needed. "Canton is my home and I hope I can stay real close to everybody. I will be more than willing to help all the new members of the board in any way I can." His final statements were greeted with a standing ovation. "I could cry," he smiled, but let's get on with business."

Board calls time on band

Stalls on fund-raising day off

By MARILYN FITCHETT

PLYMOUTH—With the ball firmly in its grasp, the Plymouth school board elected to punt Monday night on the issue of allowing Centennial Park band members a free day in which they could raise funds for their upcoming trip to the Orange Bowl.

Rather than make a ruling, the board suggested that the Plymouth business and industrial group, which is seeking the free day, talk the issue over with the high school principals for an alternate plan and asked the administration to check into the feasibility of granting the day off if the alternate plan fails.

The request was made by Dennis Golbesky, controller of the Howmet Corporation, who contended the band needed commitment funds to offset the cost to band parents.

"There are a number of established businesses in the community who are not familiar with the band because they are not here on the weekend," Golbesky said.

"We feel that we are corporate citizens who should take notice of such a fine band and we feel confident that we can alleviate part of the needed funds."

GOLBESKY ADDED that his group, which has the backing of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce, had not drawn up any formal plans as to how the band might raise funds but sought permission from the board first.

"We have considered a general march with businesses pledging so much per mile or, in the case of my firm, Howmet Corp., we might consider a donation after seeing a sample of what the band can perform," he said.

"What we want to do is present the band to a segment of the business population that doesn't know about it."

"This is not a solicitation but would include a performance by the band."

Objecting to the free day was Deputy Supt. Dr. Earl Hogan who indicated the North Central Association which grants accreditation frowns upon such free days.

"I would much rather see you go to the principals and work on a plan which did not entail a free day because of the difficulties a day off would bring," Hogan said.

THE BOARD also sent back to the administration a request from a parent to have his son attend Plymouth Salem High School rather than Plymouth Canton where he is scheduled to enroll next year.

According to J. G. Agardy, his son, who is in the eighth grade this year, will not join his two brothers who presently attend Plymouth Salem High School despite the fact that he had assurances that his recently purchased home was in the Salem district.

"I turned down three or four homes in the Bentley High area in Livonia because I wanted my son to be under the coaching of Fred Thomann at Salem."

"My son attended the summer basketball camp at Salem and he has his heart set on attending there. As of right now we'd have two sons going to Salem and one to Canton."

"I want all three to go to Salem and if I have to go ahead and seek legal aid I will go ahead with it," he said.

Board President E.J. McClendon indicated that school boundaries in Plymouth change with population shifts and contended that placing one player into a different school might jeopardize the athletic standing of the entire team.

The board then ordered the administration to issue a report on the boundary policy of the district before issuing a ruling in the Agardy case.

IN OTHER action the board agreed to pay a one-third share of $490 for the installation of a traffic light at Hartsough and Sheldon contingent upon the city and township each paying its one-third share.

In a related issue, the board, acted on the recommendation of Trustee Thomas Yack and established an intergovernmental relations committee.

"I think there is a specific need for such a committee," Trustee Carl Berry said. "I for one would like to know why the township is reluctant to pay for crossing guards and think this body could play down some of the innuendoes about local governments."

"And I'd like to know where the new Canton government is going," he said.

THE BOARD also adopted a reduced lunch program allowing children to purchase a 45 cent lunch for 20 cents.

Previously the school had a free lunch program but did not offer reduced price lunches. Formerly a family of six with an income of $7,310 or less was eligible for the free lunch. Now a family whose income exceeds $7,310 but is less than $10,240 is eligible for the 20 cent lunch.

An in-service program for learning specialists which would provide credit learning to certification in the area of learning disabilities was approved by the board at a cost of $5,700.

According to Dr. James Leary, as-

Canton denies rezoning

By RICHARD GOLD

CANTON—Philip Dingeldey's era as township supervisor came to a close Tuesday night in a board meeting unmarked by the infighting and accusations that had characterized recent meetings. Only one item of business drew any prolonged discussion and it was unanimously decided upon.

Gilbert Pearson, speaking for Brookville Associates, made a presentation to the board requesting the rezoning of 20 acres of property south of Joy and west of Sheldon to general business. The land is currently zoned for multiple dwellings. Pearson explained that he would deed property to Wayne county to build a road between Sheldon and Canton Center in return for the rezoning.

He said, "we've made a lot of progress with the Wayne County Road Commission and they are definitely in a cooperative mood." Pearson claimed that with the right of way granted to the county, the road construction might well begin in 1976.

Trustee James Poole responded that such an early start on the construction of the road was unlikely and that the road commission would build the road "whenever they were damn good and ready." "Dealing with the road commission," he asserted, "is like fighting a skunk with a water pistol."

FURTHER COMPLAINTS were lodged against the proposed rezoning, by the Windsor Park Civic Association. "We've already got enough commercial property over there," a spokesman claimed. "Let's wait for the new master land use plan."

Pearson responded that the time to move was now while the road commission showed interest. He noted that the developers had been working on the matter since 1971 and that it was hard to get all the parties together on the road.

He has had to deal with both the Wayne County and township planning commissions, the Wayne County Road Commission, residents who are in the right of way of the road, the school board, and the Canton Township board. Suggesting that the road commission wanted to change its image in Canton, Pearson beseeched the board to recommend the rezoning.

Trustee-elect Gerald Cheske, speaking from the audience, said "that he saw no immediate pressure to get the road." He too suggested that the board wait until the new master land use plan was effective.

Wes Kaiser, planning commissioner, then explained why the Canton planners had voted not to recommend the rezoning. "Sure we'd like the new road, but the trade (the land deeded by the developers for the road should they get the desired rezoning) is not enough. The probability of the road being built soon enough is not great enough to warrant our passing the rezoning now."

The board considered several more arguments both for and against the rezoning until Poole moved to defeat the measure.

Based on the reports by the Wayne County Planning Commission and the Canton Planning Commission, the rezoning proposal was defeated unanimously, but not before Trustee Brian Schwall suggested that the replacement of multiples with office buildings might be a desirable change.

BIDS FOR THE new fire station were accepted at the meeting and they ranged from $354,000 to $426,000. The bids were referred to a township consultant for evaluation.

Poole noted that the acceptance of

In Wayne-Westland Schools

Parents can see student records

By STEVE BARNABY

WESTLAND — Administrators in the Wayne-Westland School District are one step ahead of the federal government concerning parents right in having access to student records.

Beginning Nov. 19, a federal law will go into effect cutting off federal funds to any school district that denies parents the right to inspect and review any and all official records, files and data related to their children.

Although some surrounding school district personnel are hastily clipping out and throwing away portions of student records, Wayne-Westland personnel are breathing easy because of a policy instituted in 1973 which calls for parental access to their child's records.

"Actually, there aren't a lot of requests," says Administrative Assistant Denny O'Neil. "Most parents are satisfied with the report card grading system."

Since the guidelines were enacted, teachers and administrators have had to be a little more definitive in what they have included in a student's records, admits O'Neil.

"The teacher better be able to substantiate what he puts in the students' records."

PROTEST from parents began a number of years ago when they objected to experimental teaching programs which included personal questionnaires about a student's home life and his racial and sexual attitudes.

The reasoning behind the district's decision is spelled out in their policy statement.

"Records constitute one of the tools by which the school system seeks to guide its educational programs in the best interest of pupils and their families. Public school records represent the major local source of information regarding the majority of the families of the community."

The report also makes clear only school personnel, parents or students should have access to student's permanent record without either a subpoena or the written permission of the parents or legal guardian or the student, if an adult, to release information contained in the student's permanent record.

A shortcoming of the district's record keeping system, says O'Neil, is that much valuable information which could aid a student in seeking employment after graduation is done away with after graduation.

Included in such material are sports and extracurricular activities.

Permanent information consists of basic information such as date leaving or graduating from the system, schools previously attended, grade levels, attendance records, scores on intelligence tests and health data. But while the student is in the system a much more complete record is maintained.

MAINTAINED IN the temporary record data are reports of recurring behavior problems, teacher and counselor ratings, co-curricular activities, honors, hobbies, interests, educational and occupational plans.

To help professionals work together with pupils, an internal school record is kept. These records include reports of personality tests, individual intelligence tests, development histories, case studies, personal observations and impressions based on available data.

An external agency report is also kept on file. These reports don't belong to the district, but are on loan to the school to be used under specified conditions. Included are reports received from cooperating agencies such as child welfare, juvenile officers, hospitals, private practitioners who are working or have worked with the student.

External records are separate from the cumulative file. The records are retained as long as they are relevant to the student's progress. The responsibility of the records are up to the external agency.

DISCIPLINE records are retained in the administrative offices of the school where the student is attending for the purpose of determining behavior patterns, says the district policy.

These reports are reviewed at points of transition from elementary to junior high school and from junior high to senior high school, upon graduation.

Phones were the key

How GOP bucked Dem thrust

"Victory House!"

The flush of a Republican sweep in the 2nd Congressional District filled Sylvia Skrel's voice when she answered a phone call from Lansing Friday in her Livonia home.

"I really haven't gotten over the victory—sweet, sweet," the district party chairman chirped.

SHE WAS REJOICING over the success of Gov. William Milliken, Congressman Marvin Esch, State Sen. Carl Pursell, State Rep. Robert Geake and County Commissioner* Mary Dumas in Tuesday's election.

It was not only the candidates who came in for Ms. Skrel's applause, but the volunteers—Republican and independent—who got out the vote.

"That's the name of the game— whoever got out the vote, won," not concealing her pleasure at the victory.

Ms. Skrel attributed the Republican's "get-out-the-vote" coup to the district's two phone centers—the main one to cover Livonia, and Northville Township, a second for Plymouth and Plymouth Township.

THE PHONE CENTER in Livonia was the "key," the focal point for all the campaign activity in the district, she said. Not only telephone canvassing was done there, but also clerical work and distribution for all the candidates.

"It was a marvel of organization," Ms. Skrel recalls.

"There was complete unity and organization—no personality or faction clashes—we were all working together. And we had good candidates, excellent candidates, who made it easy to get volunteers."

Volunteers didn't just walk in the door—they were culled from local political lists, at parties and even from a beauty shop.

THE PHONES were staffed with four shifts daily, canvassing registered voters with listed phone numbers to identify those who favored the governor and Esch.

Those who opposed the ticket leaders were eliminated from the list. Those who were undecided were the target.

The undecided voters were sent a complete slate packet of literature with special attention given to areas of each voter's concern. Those who were interested in taxes, got the tax package and so on.

Those who identified themselves as needing absentee ballots were sent applications with a signed cover letter from Milliken and Esch. There were about 2,000 of those, and probably 2,000 votes for the Republicans.

On election day a massive get-out-the-vote drive sent the center into full tilt with some volunteers reluctant to relinquish their phones because others might take them.

VOLUNTEERS WERE RECRUITED up to the last moment, and there was always something for them to do, Ms. Skrel said.

"You have to know your people and know how to get the best out of them, and not overburden them," she said, adding that some might call her "pushy."

The governor and his family and the lieutenant governor (James Dammann) really made us feel a part of it, and you know that if you make volunteers feel as important as they really are, you get them to come back."

The atmosphere of the phone center also contributed to its success, she pointed out. A rather dilapidated house on Farmington Road was refurbished with paint and elbow grease to present a homey atmosphere for the unpaid workers.

FURTHER ORGANIZATION was evident in the "lit-drop," a house to house march by precinct delegates with a single sheaf of Republican literature and the voter guide poll cards, printed with the 2nd district slate and the names of judges in the cities and adding Republican township slates in the townships.

"We didn't use big money, we used people to win," she said.

And as an added bonus, Ms. Skrel believes "we opened up Livonia for Republicans and there's a resurgence. We used to have a bad name, I think, but now it's different."

The PLUS program

A new approach to preschool

By MARILYN FITCHETT

PLYMOUTH—There are more moms attending Plymouth schools these days and none of them is enrolled in adult education classes.

Actually it's their children who are enrolled in PLUS, Pupils Learning Useful Skills, but the program is centered around having mothers attend classes to learn how to help their children at home.

"I think the reason why a project like Head Start didn't succeed is that there was no follow-up at home," Mary Fritz, project director, said.

"In PLUS, junior is allowed to do his thing while mom is in the classroom next door, working on projects to take home with her to work with him during the coming week.

"And not only do mothers work on projects for their children, they also get a chance to talk over things like child management problems with other mothers," she said.

"The focal point of the curriculum is that the child not only learns at school but at home, too."

PLUS, a jointly funded project by the federal government and Plymouth, draws four-year-olds from the target schools of Isbister in Canton and Central and Starkweather in Plymouth.

Housed in Farrand School, the program is patterned after similar ventures in Redford Township and Wayne-Westland, but the specifics of the program were written by the principals of the feeder schools.

Sixty-five youngsters attend Farrand one day a week and an additional 60 attend once a month but still go to one class a week set up in a neighborhood home.

According to teacher Doris Balconi, teachers offer eight to 10 activities for the mothers to work with their children between sessions.

"Many of the activities have practical applications," Mrs. Balconi said. "For instance, we might suggest raking leave to develop motor skills or have a child set the table, urging them count out knives and forks."

"While giving a child a bath, the mother might ask the child if she can wash his left arm and then his right arm to encourage the learning of direction."

While Mrs. Balconi was working with the youngsters, teacher Roxanne Sparkman was instructing the mothers how to make a color domino game.

"First the child will learn colors and then they will go onto shapes, numerals and letters," Mrs. Sparkman said. "And all the while the child is also learning manipulative skills."

While to the casual observer the Farrand classes resemble virtually any other pre-school classroom, the activities are subtly geared to develop a number of skills.

A child using Play-dough, for example, is also learning about color, forms and textures in addition to the coordination he is developing while forming the clay.

Specific skills which the PLUS program emphasizes include gross motor control and coordination which includes balance and posture, laterality, rhythm, body image, spatial awareness and sensory usage.

Visual motor skills develop visual memory and spatial relationships as well as eye-hand coordination, form constancy and figure completion and identification.

Teachers also work with students in the auditory processes of sound discrimination, reception and memory.

Comprehension and language skills are also developed during the PLUS classes.

Children in PLUS were screened this past fall for the program but all of the children and their mothers attend on a volunteer basis.

"We don't go into areas such as measuring intelligence," Mrs. Fritz said. "This is strictly a program which readies children for kindergarten."

"The mothers are really excited about the program and we're depending on them a good deal for this program to be a success."

Mrs. Fritz is seeking volunteers to work a few hours a week with the PLUS youngsters. Those interested can contact her at Farrand School.

Gifted students get new challenge

By STEVE BARNABY

WESTLAND — The gifted children program in the Wayne-Westland School District is being expanded because of successful pilot programs instituted in the summer of 1972, according to district administrators.

Beginning in January 1975, the district will divide the gifted program into two five-week sessions, allowing the children to further develop their educational interests. Tentatively, the program will include approximately two per cent of the student population. Those participating are students with IQs of more than 130.

"Students must be presented with learning alternatives or episodes which are significantly different from what is presented in general education taking place during the week," says district administrator Ray Rafford.

"The discovery method of teaching should be one of the primary teaching strategies."

THE FIRST FIVE weeks will be a general session at designated elementary centers. At the end of the session, each child would select one specific area on which to concentrate for the next five-week session.

The introductory sessions will be conducted in five elementary buildings: Tinkham, Monroe, Edison, Schweitzer and Stottlemeyer. Students from Kettering will be absorbed by the other centers.

The second two weeks will be spent at Marshall and use resources from the high schools for the older students. Two or three of the elementary centers will be used for the younger students, depending on the number of children involved.

Courses to be emphasized are language arts, science and math. Types of activities being considered for the older children are botany, biology, electronics, photography, ceramics, advanced math, television, production, poetry and drama.

For younger children areas like botany, biology, astronomy, communications, art and animal life will be included.

"The final selection would depend on the interests of the children participating in the program," says Rafford.

Previously, sessions for gifted children were conducted on Saturdays, but students, parents and staff felt such sessions were too inhibiting to hobbies, family activities and social activities. Because of this, the coming program will be conducted after school.

The straight 16 weeks on Saturdays in the past has proven tiring for students and staff. Also, it left half of the school year with no program. This plan gives some time off and also covers most of the school year," says Rafford.

An advantage of the new program will be the daily contact the students are able to maintain at the centers.

"In order to best duplicate the summer program, we felt that the school year program should be scheduled two days a week after the regular school day. The student would be able to specialize in two areas, one during the first session, in January and February, and the other during the third session, March and April."

The elementary gifted program began with a pilot program at Edison School in 1972. During the spring of 1973, a Saturday program was instituted. In-service training for teachers was conducted that year along with the addition of three centers.

IN THE SPRING of 1974, four more centers were added and a program was run on Saturdays in eight elementary buildings. While dropping two centers in the summer of 1974, a junior high facility was incorporated into the program.

"The summer 1974 program was undoubtedly the most successful program to date," says Rafford.

"Many of the facilities at Wayne Memorial High School were used as were the art and science complexes at Marshall Junior High School. Parents, students and staff were all very positive in their comments about this program," says Rafford.

Class meetings will be conducted two days during the week after school with grades one through three meeting one day and grades four and up on another day. The students will meet for 1½ hours, with teachers working two hours.

Registration of students will be handled by the continuing education department. Students will be selected through testing and teacher and building administrators evaluations.

Treasure hunters meet with success

By RICHARD GOLD

PLYMOUTH—The treasure hunting fever is spreading in Plymouth and Al Temple is to blame. It's his infectious enthusiasm that drew more than 40 people with metal detectors to the East Middle School athletic grounds in the pouring rain to hunt for buried treasure.

The hunt, which took place Sunday, Nov. 3, was for coins and tokens buried by Temple and several other members of the local treasure hunting club.

Temple had gone out Saturday night preceding the hunt and buried 1,500 coins worth more than $60. Fifteen tokens were also planted. They were redeemable at local businesses for pen and pencil sets, deluxe hamburgers, and cases of pop that were donated by Plymouth merchants.

Many of the objects, which included rings and other metal artifacts, were not planted by Temple. "Over one-third of the stuff we found I didn't even bury," grinned Temple, you see I knew that the athletic grounds have been used several times as a carnival site."

THE CLUB, still in its infancy, (and as yet unnamed), is drawing more and more people to each meeting. The 40 people at Sunday's outing was perfect testimony to that fact. However, it is Temple's fever (which borders on fanaticism) that has brought all the treasure hunting aficionados together.

"I hope we get people from everywhere and every walk of life in this club—the more the merrier as far as I am concerned," he explained.

Temple sees the club as more than a hobby, however. "We are teaching people how to dig for artifacts without leaving gaping holes or disturbing the landscape. I hope in the future to offer our services to state and civic organizations that need help in locating lost objects of value," he said.

He referred to an incident in St. Clair shores where treasure hunters with metal detectors had helped to find property that had been stolen from a church and then buried by the thieves.

Temple pointed out that the recent hunt at the school grounds also served a civic purpose. He noted that club members removed "bushel baskets" of garbage from the fields. "There were millions of can tabs and as we hunted we picked them up and deposited them in trash containers he explained.

IF INTEREST in the club continues to rise, Temple hopes to see a club newspaper and lots of field trips. "We'd like to get a camping trip together for the spring when we go up north to treasure hunt," he said.

The club will meet again this Monday at East Middle School to name the club, discuss upcoming projects and plan future events.

Consumers can air gripes

PLYMOUTH TOWNSHIP—If you can't get township residents downtown, then take downtown to Plymouth.

That's the theory of the Wayne County Consumer Protection Agency, which will send an investigator from Detroit to Plymouth Township on a monthly basis to take complaints from local residents.

Investigator Johanna Moore will be at township hall from noon to 4 p.m. Monday, Nov. 18 to hear consumer problems.

After Monday she will continue to visit the township the second Wednesday of each month.

"The regional offices will handle the same complaints as those handled in downtown Detroit," Sue Hoover, public education director, said.

"On the first visit the complainant will fill out a form and indicate the nature of his problem. In some cases the problem will be referred to our legal staff or, if time permits, the investigator will try to solve the problem on the spot," she said.

"If a criminal charge is made, it will be referred to the prosecuting attorney's office."

"The agency has the capability of criminal prosecution and we supply representation in just about every court—from small claims to common pleas."

In addition to providing legal counsel, the agency also provides mediation and is setting up a council of mediators with three members representing business, consumer affairs, and labor hearing each case.

"We handle 100 to 150 complaints a week in the Detroit office," she said.

"Charges range from reports of poor repair work to being charged too much for a product to fraud in advertising."

The county agency is funded by the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration. In addition to going downtown Detroit or visiting the local township hall, persons may file complaints by phone or mail.

Troy. The work on both the cemetery and Spring Street has already been completed.

Yockey said, "The work was necessary and it had been budgeted," but noted that the city charter requires that a purchase of more than $1,000 have to be let out for bids, "unless it is an emergency."

"In my opinion this was not an emergency. It could have been done next spring."

The city manager said that he informed the commission of his action at Tuesday night's committee-of-the-whole meeting and had checked with City Attorney Charles Lowe before taking the disciplinary action against Vogras.

When contacted, Vogras said he would rather not comment on the incident.

DPW chief suspended

PLYMOUTH—City Manager Fred Yockey has suspended the city's DPW Superintendent for two weeks after authorizing a paving project without the letting of bids.

Effective at noon on Tuesday, Kenneth Vogras was given the two week leave without pay, after authorizing an approximately $7,900 contract for seal coat work at Riverside Cemetery and on Spring Street.

"I received a letter from Vogras in which he said that he had authorized the work because of its urgency, so that it could be completed before bad weather set in," Yockey said.

Yockey added that he had no choice under the city charter and gave Vogras the 14-day suspension.

The contract was given to Highway Maintenance and Construction Co., of bids was an exercise in futility because the electorate had not passed the millage to create funds for the fire house. Clerk John Flodin agreed that the people had spoken but he also pointed out that enough money might be "scraped together" to build the second fire station. However, Flodin commented, funds to operate a second station could not be generated. Final approval was also given to several plat plans and a liquor license for a local merchant was also passed on to the county without any complaint. The restructuring of a drainage

The program would include work in the theoretical or background of child development, diagnostic techniques such as testing and clinical work and treatment specific to learning disabilities.

The Plymouth administration expects that almost all of the cost of the program would be reimbursed by the state and county special education funding.

Leary was also given the go-ahead to begin background work on establishing the Retired Senior Volunteer Program, RSVP, which would enlist senior citizens in school programs in positions equivalent of aides.

"There's a crying need to expose our students to the skills and talents of retired citizens," Dr. Leary said.

ation or upon leaving school in the district, for possible elimination if the district decides it isn't pertinent.

The discipline report is also separate from the cumulative file.

Attendance referral reports are maintained in the child accounting and attendance office for ten years. Copies of the attendance referrals returned to the school must be destroyed at points of transition from one school to another.

PROFESSIONALS working in the schools may retain personal and confidential files including notes, transcripts of interviews and other memory aids for their use in counseling students, says the policy.

All anecdotal reports concerning students must be signed and dated by the observer.

"These reports are cumulative in nature. A single instance may have little value but, related to a student's other reports over a period of time, may provide significant insight relative to a student's behavior," says the report.

"Extreme caution must be used in maintaining objectivity of reports that would stand scrutiny even in the courts."

BUT JUST AS the district has taken a stand to open up its records to parents, it has also taken precautions to allow confidentiality between the student, parent and teacher or administrator.

"The public we serve is becoming increasingly sensitive over the kinds of information we release to others and is concerned about invasion of privacy and individual rights," says the report.

With this thought in mind the district has drawn strict guidelines concerning those, other than the parents, who may seek access to the records.

The cumulative permanent student record may only be seen if a release is signed by a legal parent or guardian. This policy also holds with the temporary and internal school report. External agency reports may not be released by the district.

ditch in the Carriage Hills subdivision was also considered by the board, but no definite solution was arrived at before the board decided to drop the matter for the present.

AT THE CLOSE of the meeting Poole commented on his recent campaign for supervisor and recent board meetings. "I didn't answer charges made at me during prior meetings because campaigning should take place outside of board meetings. I have too much respect for this office to politick while conducting township business."

He continued, "Let's hope that all of the slurs and accusations at meetings are over now, at least for the next two years."

Poole also said that he wanted to kill one other rumor. "People have suggested that I cannot work with Bob Greenstein. Let me say right now that I am sure that Mr. Greenstein and myself will be able to work side by side without problems."

A NEW BANK serving Canton Township was opened last week by Wayne Federal Savings at 44101 Ford Rd.

Morrison said one is located at 44101 Ford in Canton Township northwest of Wayne. It was built at a total cost of $225,000 he added.

A second new office is located in the Lake Wood Shopping Center. It will serve the Belleville and Ypsilanti areas.

Both offices offer full financial service. The Canton branch offers complete drive-up window service as well.

Controversy continues

Schoolcraft studies residency rule

To meet the one-man-one-vote mandate in representation, the trustees at Schoolcraft College are studying a modified residency requirement for the make-up of the board in the future.

The residency requirement was offered as a compromise at a recent study session when members were discussing several plans to meet the court ruling.

THE FIRST of three plans considered was to have all trustees elected at large. The second was on the basis of proportionate regions, or districts, based on a population potential.

When the members split between the two, the compromise was offered. Under this plan the petitions on behalf of any candidate would be limited to residents of the local school district in which he lived, but he would be voted on by voters in the total Schoolcraft College district.

It was stated this modified residency concept had a better chance of being approved than the other two because it more closely met the one-man-one-vote requirement.

When Schoolcraft College opened each of the five school districts (Livonia, Plymouth, Northville, Garden City and Clarenceville) had one representative with three others elected at large.

Then, a few years ago, after a court fight, all members were elected at large.

This is the plan now in vogue, but it often has been pointed out that with an even number of trustees, there could come a time when the board would be evenly divided and no business could be transacted.

TO OFFSET this possibility the Schoolcraft board adopted a resolution on April 25, 1973, in which it basically would go back to the present statute, but add a fourth seat at large. This would provide the desired odd number of trustees.

This action was an attempt to reconcile differences and was based on the idea that the position of the courts has changed somewhat in interpretation of the one-man-one-vote principle.

No decision has been reached since that resolution was adopted. However, it was pointed out at Wednesday's study session that the residency requirement has been attempted at Delta College near Midland.

Delta serves three counties and has a nine-member board by statute. Originally, trustees were elected by county as terms expired or vacancies occurred.

In recent years, however, to meet the one-man-one-vote test, it has applied a residency rule by county. But the candidates are elected at large throughout the three county area.

Using this as example the Schoolcraft board is studying the question of whether it would be possible to elect five members with a residency requirement—one in each of the five K-12 districts) elected at-large and have the balance elected at-large without the residency requirement.

THIS COMPROMISE was offered when it was figured that having each district name a member to the board would not provide equal representation because of the population factor.

For instance, the Clarenceville representative would be speaking for far fewer residents than the Livonia or Plymouth trustee.

By the same token, it was pointed out in the study session, that using the potential population as a factor, Livonia with close to one half the population in the district, would dominate the board.

More than that, the population explosion in the Plymouth School District, would eventually have the same result.

Under either of these plans there would be an imbalance. So, for that reason the compromise modified residency requirement was offered on the pretext it would have the best chance of being approved by the legislature.

The decision of the board on its choice of the plans possibly will be made shortly.

Wayne County pay hike provides dispute

By EMORY DANIELS

The pay raise voted for elected Wayne County officials has raised a question whether one particular salary hike is intended to discourage establishment of a county executive. Another issue is whether elimination of per diem pay for county commissioners will discourage them from attending committee meetings. Six days before election, the 27-member county board of commissioners voted 18-4, with two abstentions, to raise the pay of all elected officials and their deputies effective Jan. 1.

AMONG THE ADJUSTMENTS was an increase in the board chairman's pay from $14,900, including per diem, to a flat $17,500. The vice-chairman's pay was hiked from $12,900, including per diem, to a flat, $15,000.

The commissioners increased their annual salary from $10,000 to $14,000 and eliminated the $30 per diem payments for attending board committees. The per diem allowance made commissioners eligible for up to $2,880 annually for a possible total annual paycheck of $12,880.

Commissioners are prohibited by law from raising their pay in mid-term. They set the $10,000 salary in 1969 as a compromise between those who argued the post should be full-time, and those who argued it was part-time.

The $30 payments for an annual maximum of 96 committee meetings were added in 1973.

The board, for the first time, extended its own members' eligibility for cost-of-living payments already received by county employees and other elected officials. Such payments are made if the federal cost-of-living index rises.

Voting against the salary increases were Mary Dumas (R-Livonia), Erving Steiner Jr. (R-Grosse Pointe Farms), Paul Silver (D-Detroit), a lame-duck commissioner, and Jarrett Simmons (D-Detroit). The abstention votes were cast by Edward K. Michalski and Samuel A. Turner, both Detroit Democrats.

MRS. DUMAS argued against a large raise for the board chairman on the grounds that having a highly paid chairman would weaken the case for establishing an elected county executive.

The board several times this year declined to put the county executive proposal on the ballot — voting against an August primary vote and then against a November general ballot question.

The initial recommendation was to raise the county board chairman's pay to $20,000 plus cost-of-living. This, however, was pared by the full board to $17,500.

RICHARD MANNING, (D-Redford) doesn't agree with suggestions that higher pay for the board chairman is an attempt to create a county executive or to circumvent creation of the position.

"In 1970 and 1972 I argued the chairman should be compensated more so we would get his fulltime services to see that board policies are implemented. Our policies, by the time they filter down, often aren't implemented as the board wishes."

"If the board is to be effective, the board chairman should be paid enough to spend the time following up on board decisions to make sure they are implemented."

"A county board chairman doesn't have the same powers an elected county executive would. There's no comparison."

"In 1970," Manning continued, "I suggested each commissioner take a $1,000 pay cut and pay $26,000 to hire a county executive but that failed."

Commissioner Thomas Taylor (D-Westland), whose 20th District also includes Garden City, also disagreed that the chairman's pay hike would discourage the impetus towards a county executive.

"I'm a strong advocate of a county executive and don't think the pay adjustment will remove the impetus to create an executive position. The original recommended $20,000 and the adopted $17,500 is a long way from the $30-$35,000 salary a county executive would earn."

The board chairman puts in a lot of extra hours as county spokesman to the state legislature and key spokesman for the county to the public. Taylor added, and should receive compensation for that additional workload. "It is not right to pay $16,000 to a man we expect to be spokesman for the county."

MANNING AND TAYLOR agreed elimination of the per diem allowance will not discourage commissioners from attending committee meetings.

"The ones who attended meetings in the past will, and the ones who didn't won't," responded Taylor. "It won't make much difference."

"Some commissioners attended few committee meetings even with per diem. Others attended meetings even when the number was in excess of what they would get payments for."

Taylor said his human resources committee often held 12 meetings a month. Under per diem payments, commissioners would get paid for eight meetings per month. "Yet, we always had a quorum on my committee for the four meetings which weren't covered by per diem payments."

Manning said the per diem policy tended to be abused. At one time the county had 29 standing committees, explained Manning, but then reorganized to four standing committees with six members each. Each committee meets on specified days of the week so the public can attend and provide input to commissioners.

"There has developed a practice recently of some commissioners setting up subcommittees — even a one-man subcommittee — which were meeting on odd days without a chance for input from the public. We soon reached the stage of having 35-40 special subcommittees."

Manning added that most commissioners will do their committee work with the flat salary arrangement because most are dedicated enough to do their homework.

MRS. DUMAS also fought the increase because "we asked every other elected official to justify with facts and statistics why we should give them an increase. I don't see how we can justify the raise given to members of this board."

She said the board should have established an independent salary commission to recommend pay figures and added that elected officials, as a matter of principle, shouldn't come under cost of living officials.

Manning pointed out that the blue ribbon committee approach was used six years ago and was a "fiasco" because the blue ribbon members recommended salaries "which were much too high."

Manning said he voted yes on the final proposal because it was a compromise package. He did vote against several variations of pay raises, including the general government committee recommendation to raise circuit judges salaries to $45,000. "This is more than state supreme justices and the governor earn," Manning commented. The final action was to increase judges pay by $370 to $15,000 giving them a total salary of $41,500 with the state contributing the balance.

AMONG OTHER officials, the county clerk and sheriff were increased $2,515 to $32,000, and the prosecuting attorney was hiked by $2,324 to a new salary of $40,000.

Raises of $1,244 were voted for the three-member board of auditors and the drain commissioner, register of deeds and treasurer, putting their salaries at $28,000. Deputies to the elected officials received similar raises.

The pay hikes, the first in six years, will remain in force until at least 1974 which is the next opportunity the law provides for another pay increase. The cost-of-living allowance may take pressure off for raises for commissioners, although the allowance didn't deter hikes to other elected officers this year who were receiving cost-of-living adjustments.

County board passes budget

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners has approved by a 22-2 vote a $304,251,380 budget for next year, $993,385 over the amount recommended by auditors.

Voting against the budget were Commissioners Mary Dumas (R-Livonia) and Paul Silver (D-Detroit), who charged the budget was not fiscally sound.

County departments had requested $12.6 million more than the auditors had recommended.

UNDER THE budget, county departments must collectively save $6 million by not filling vacant jobs until they have achieved their portion of the saving.

Departments must apply to a special commissioners' committee for permission to fill vacant jobs.

Included in the budget is a $50 million lump sum for Wayne County General Hospital, designed to improve the hospital's operations.

The new lump sum budgeting approach gives the hospital administration board discretion to use its funds within the $50 million limit.

Under the old approach, The County

Board of Auditors, two commissioners' committees and the full board of commissioners approved most hospital administrative decisions, a process that normally took two months.

THE BUDGET leaves the future of Sheriff's township patrols up in the air, pending a court decision on the county's obligation to finance the service.

The law suit, started by seven townships in Wayne County, asks that the county be declared legally responsible for funding township patrols. Circuit Judge Thomas Foley has scheduled a Nov. 15 hearing.

Partial funding of $350,000 for township patrols was put in a special projects account in the Sheriff's Department budget. That means another vote will be required to continue the patrol service beyond the end of the fiscal year on Nov. 30.

In each of the last two years, the board of commissioners budgeted the township patrols for nine months with townships bearing part of the cost, but later extended funding for the full year.

MISS AMERICA PAM ELDRED modeled one of the real bargains of the fashion show, a short cocktail dress in jade green nylon. From Ayres, Unlimited, it was priced at $38.

BY MARGARET MILLER

Glamorous models, wearable fashions and plenty of dedication made the Redford Suburban League's celebrity fashion show last week a headline event in the league's 19-year history.

As a result, the RSL will be able to make its biggest-ever contributions to programs that aid retarded and handicapped children.

The exact amount of profit will be disclosed at the December meeting of the league, "as a present to all our members who worked so hard," said Mrs. Dorothy Slapik, president.

Mrs. Jenine Duprey, ways and means chairman who was in charge of the event, did say the party that filled Raleigh House in Southfield to overflowing raised more funds than any other single event in league history.

"I CAN'T TELL YOU how pleased I am with this response to our special children," said Mrs. Irene Soucek, first RSL president who stepped to the microphone for a few moments before the fashion show began.

"They are our cause this year, last year and every year."

She was speaking not only to the 1,000 women who jammed the big hall for the event, but also to the dozen celebrity models who donated time to sow a variety of styles from Matthews of Birmingham.

The list of models included stately Dollie Cole, well-known on the social scene. Pam Eldred, former Miss America; Lila Masson, a member of the Redford Suburban League who won the title of Mrs. America a few years ago and Edna Slavik, leader of ALSAC fund-raising drives.

Also helping display the styles were television personalities Doris Biscoe and Marilyn Turner and wives of several men known in media and sports circles—Judy McCarthy, Deborah Coleman, Dorothy Cash, Theresa Delveccio, Maureen Fogel and Peggy LeGoff.

Mary Jo Coleman, who works in public relations for the Detroit Red Wings, came to lunch and stayed to do a fill-in modeling stint.

THE FASHIONS from Matthews, described by Sally Watton, were moderately priced.

Tops with some of the suits began at $6, outfits ranged in price from a $36 brown cocktail dress to a leather pantsuit on sale at $135.

Several of the outfits were not priced by the commentator. The models already had purchased them.

Assisting the models as they left the runway and moved through the crowd was a special guest of the Suburban League, District Judge John Dillon of Redford Township.

IRENE SOUCEK, first RSL president, welcomed guests at the luncheon and show.

Woman on the GO!

She learns of her heritage on radio program

When Oresta Karalash of Livonia began broadcasting a Ukrainian program over radio station WMZK-FM, she really didn't know much about the music of her ancestors.

She learned fast, though, with a daily hour to fill.

She also has met a lot of interesting folks who dropped by to chat on guest appearances.

And she's found herself embroiled in a dispute involving two factions of the Ukrainian community in the metropolitan area.

THAT INCIDENT took place Oct. 27 when two artists from the Soviet Ukraine, Dmitro Hnatiuk and Yevhenia Miroshnichenko, appeared in a concert in Windsor.

Mrs. Karalash, mother of three sons and well known now in the ethnic group, decided to attend the concert although it was being picketed by persons protesting the continued imprisonment of Valentyn Moroz, Ukrainian writer and historian.

For her trouble, she reported later on her broadcast, she ran into "the hurling of obscenities" and damage to her car.

Explaining her position on the broadcast, Mrs. Karalash said she felt deep regret that "what should have been a pleasant interlude in the lives of the Ukrainians of the Detroit-Windsor area became a politically-inspired holocaust."

And, considering the whole incident off the air, she said she felt her own rights to appreciate an artistic performance had been violated.

"I believe in the cause of the protesters but not their methods."

THE PICKET-LINE problems were more exciting than most of the information that finds its way onto the program Oresta Karalash creates.

But there have been some other notable incidents described recently too.

Like meeting Gov. William Milliken at a press conference shortly before the election and asking him if he would be willing to write a letter to Leonid Brezhnev expressing concern over "the atrocities and the lack of human rights in the Ukraine today."

His answer was a definite yes, she told her listeners.

SHE ALSO WAS ABLE to perform a service for her ethnic group by serving as a judge for the recent embroidery ball in Southfield sponsored by the Ukrainian Women's League.

In connection with the ball, mothers and daughters in the Ukrainian community do their best embroidery work on gowns and a panel of judges picks the best one.

"I've really never done much embroidery," Mrs. Karalash said. "I'm pretty inept. But they wanted me to judge the aesthetic effects."

THIS LIVONIAN grew up in Toronto and came to the Detroit area after her marriage to Donald Karalash, now employed with the Ford Motor Co.

They lived first in Detroit and then Dearborn Heights and moved to Livonia nearly eight years ago. They also had three sons, Dan, now 16, Mark, 15, and Paul, 12.

When Paul started school his mother decided to go to college, and wound up in a media program at the University of Detroit.

From there it was a short step three years ago to the Ukrainian segment of a group of ethnic programs Booth Broadcasting was putting on the air.

I SIGNED A CONTRACT for three months and I've been there three years.

Her program, from noon to 1 p.m. each day, is in English and features, besides music of the Ukraine, interviews with guests and opportunities for listeners to request music or discussion topics. The evidence from comments she hears is that she has quite a few listeners, Mrs. Karalash said, but the audience doesn't usually number her sons.

"They are busy with school at that time, and anyway it's no great treat to hear me anymore."

"Besides, when they do hear my program, they're always asking why I don't talk so nicely to them."

Tickets for his talk and the two remaining lectures in the Livonia series, Betty Jo Hawkins on Jan. 15 and James Beard on March 19, may be purchased at the theater.

Luncheon reservations must be

The speaker also writes poetry — which sometimes finds a place on his broadcasts — and has 25 published songs, including "Black is Beautiful," recorded by Nancy Wilson.

6 area hospitals giving free tests for diabetes

Six area hospitals will be conducting free diabetes tests during National Diabetes Detection Week, Nov. 17 to 23.

Coordinated by the Michigan Diabetes Association (MDA), the free blood test gives persons who may wonder if they are among the growing number of diabetics the answers they are seeking.

The six hospitals in western Wayne County, all offering tests Nov. 18 to 22, are: Metropolitan Hospital West, 28303 Joy, Westland; Annapolis Hospital Laboratory, 33155 Annapolis, Wayne; Garden City Osteopathic Hospital, 6245 Inkster Road; Redford Community Hospital, 25210 Grand River near Beech Daley; St. Mary Hospital, 36475 Five Mile at Levan, Livonia; and Wayne County General Hospital, Merriman and Michigan Avenue, Westland.

WAYNE COUNTY General Hospital will provide free tests from 9 to 11:30 a.m. as will St. Mary Hospital.

Redford Community Hospital will offer tests from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., Annapolis from 9 to 11 a.m., Garden City Osteopathic from 1 to 3 p.m., and Metropolitan West from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

About two per cent of Michigan's population has been diagnosed as diabetic, but the MDA has estimated as many as 500,000 state residents could have or could develop diabetes within their lifetime.

While diabetes is generally believed to be hereditary in nature, it has been known to "skip" entire generations and, more recently, has been diagnosed in persons with no apparent family history of diabetes.

Besides the hereditary factors, other high risk persons are those over 40 and overweight.

FOLLOWING THE test, persons who appear to have symptoms of diabetes, and their personal physician will be contacted by the MDA.

For the free blood test to be most accurate, MDA has suggested prescribed meals which should be eaten before testing.

The suggested BREAKFAST is: fruit (banana, canned fruit or large glass of fruit juice); one cup cereal (cooked or flakes); one-half cup milk; two teaspoons sugar; two pieces toast or bread; one tablespoon jelly or jam; coffee or tea (cream and sugar if desired).

The suggested LUNCHES are: hamburger and bun, French fries or potato chips, dessert, large glass of pop (not diet); or, vegetable or cream soup, five crackers, meat or cheese sandwich (with two bread slices), dessert, one cup milk.

WHILE FOLLOWING the exact diets listed isn't necessary, foods of the same types and quantities should be eaten.

Following the meal, DO NOT drink anything (other than water), eat additional foods, smoke, chew gum, take cough drops or eat candy until the blood sample has been taken.

The meal should be eaten within a 15-minute period and finished two hours before testing. Try to arrive at the test center within 90 minutes of completing the meal.

The MDA is a service of United Way of Michigan and is headquartered in southeast Michigan at 6131 W. Outer Drive, Detroit 48235.

Breast cancer will be subject

Fife group looks for members

PLYMOUTH—The Plymouth Fife and Drum Corps is seeking recruits to begin training for next summer's parade season.

The corps is currently made up of 30 corps members plus a drum band of 17. The members come primarily from the Plymouth area, but recruits from nearby areas are also welcome.

The corps presents patriotic American music depicting the Revolutionary and Civil wars. At present it is the only drum and fife corps in Michigan, and one of only three outside of the east coast area.

In the past three years the corps has traveled to Connecticut, Ontario and Indiana, as well as around the Detroit and Michigan areas, to perform in parades, marching exhibitions and concerts.

Mark and Carol Petty are directors of the corps. Mark is a former University of Michigan band percussionist and teaches a drum and bugle course. Carol is a music instructor in the West Bloomfield schools.

The board of directors is made up of parents and corps members.

Membership is open to both males and females between the ages of 13 and 25. Interested persons should appear at the Nov. 11 or Nov. 18 practice at Plymouth Salem High School beginning at 7 p.m.

DR. LEE E. FELDCAMP, (second from left) a Plymouth physician, was on hand with other members of the Michigan Academy of Family Physicians and the Michigan State Medical Society, who watched as Gov. Milliken recently signed a health appropriations bill. The bill authorizes $750,000 to be spent to help finance family practice residency training programs in Michigan. The two associations jointly worked for passage of the bill. Pictured from left to right are: Roy J. Gerard, MD, Saginaw; Feldcamp; Robert J. Toteff, MD, Saginaw; Robert W. Oakes, MD, Harbor Beach (president-elect of the MAFF); George A. Dean, MD, Southfield; Cecelia F. Hivson, MD, Dearborn (president of MAFF); Sen. Charles Zollar, Benton Harbor, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee; Bruce W. Ambrose, manager, MSMS Dept. of Government Relations, and Maurice S. Reizen, MD, director, Michigan Department of Public Health.

Learning disabilities programs revamped

By MARILYN FITCHETT

PLYMOUTH—A revamped learning disabilities program at Tanger School will move the program into two classrooms instead of the original one in which it was housed.

According to Dr. Edwin Page, Plymouth Community Schools director of personnel services, the two classrooms will provide a more homogenous grouping of students according to age and grade.

"The redistribution has been made with the minimal disruption," Page said at Monday's board meeting.

"We now have Kathleen Teahan teaching five full time learning disabilities children and four part-time in the morning and four in the afternoon.

"Kathryn Quinn will have three full time students in her classroom and four part-time students in the morning and six in the afternoon.

"Now each teacher has 13 students and this keeps us within the special education guidelines."

When board secretary Marcia Borowski expressed concern that the smaller schools of the district might not be staffed according to the needs of the school, Page responded:

"I'd be able to staff the schools according to need if you would provide me with the staff," he said. "Any time."

Supt. John Hoben indicated that he had asked the state and the county to send representatives into the district for evaluation and to offer suggestions on how to improve the program.

He added that while the administration had originally anticipated $100,000 from the recent county special education millage, they had feared the money would be cut to $40,000.

"We now have some assurance from the county that the money we'll be receiving will be in line with our original budget estimate," Hoben said.

"We should be receiving the formula for distribution shortly," Barbara Leffler, Plymouth-Northville president of the Michigan Association for Children with Learning Disabilities, addressed the board seeking a written report within the next month on the problems, improvements and long range plans for the learning disability program in Plymouth.

"We were happy to see the learning disability program started in September and we're enthusiastic about the perceptual motor development program," Mrs. Leffler said.

"But we still feel that we need to make progress in the area of remedial reading."

"We are getting aid not only from the state but from the county as well. And we feel that there isn't so much a learning disabilities problem as a priority problem of where money is being spent."

"Parents are becoming worried and upset that an unsatisfactory situation exists in this district."

Who hired all those 'immoral' school teachers?

I am realistic enough to expect propaganda from a teachers' union negotiator speaking to the public. But Monday night, listening to the Garden City Board of Education, I discovered I was naive in believing board members don't propagandize to the public but convey the truth as it is perceived by them.

Truth, however, was not conveyed to the packed crowd attending the board meeting in O'Leary Auditorium. It was a disgusting display of feeding on emotions to gain support and deliberately misusing statistics Nixon-style in a bumbling attempt to give the appearance of credibility.

The "net gain" for the board, for the sake of this year's contract dispute, was to endanger chances to pass any future millage issue and to lower the community's esteem for the district as an institution.

THE KEY propaganda thrust was that teachers, because they went on strike, are law-breakers and immoral individuals. Nonsense!

To suggest teachers are immoral because they have chosen to defy a court order is a disservice to the 525 professional teachers in the district. And I must join with one parent in asking how the administration—and board—can be so inept as to hire 525 immoral teachers. Surely the personnel records of a few showed taints of sin before they reached tenure.

And I must remind residents that two years ago the community was inundated with "This Family Will Not Be Bused" signs, a declaration that parents and taxpayers would break the law if busing were made law. Is civil disobedience correct only for parents and blacks, but not teachers? Was Martin Luther King immoral? Or Irene McCabe? It is silly and irresponsible to suggest Garden City teachers are immoral for risking jail to protest what they feel is an unjust law, that law which prohibits public employees to strike.

MANY GAMES were played by board members with statistics, with the most glaring being the suggestion that teachers are being offered $19 an hour but, greedy animals that they are, have refused it and gone on strike. For shame!

The $19 per hour was based on a salary level of $19,000 per MA maximum, almost the top of the scale. The board suggested that salary should be divided by the 1,000 "classroom hours" worked by the average teacher in a year for an hourly rate of $19. Based on 180 days, this would mean the teacher works 5.6 hours each day in the classroom.

It obviously doesn't count lunchtime (none of us get paid for lunchtime, do we?), or the free hour, or the time walking in the hallway between classes. But more importantly, it fails to take into account the time to prepare lessons, grade papers, structure tests, score tests, and other professional duties which aren't performed in the "classroom."

If you allow for an eight hour day plus one hour preparation time at home, discarding the "classroom-hours" garbage, the hourly rate is $11.70 for a person with six years college and high seniority in the district. It should be apparent, however, that most teachers spend more than one hour prep time for five classes and so the more accurate figure is closer to $9 an hour.

I am not arguing whether Garden City teachers should receive $6, $9, $11 or $19 an hour. I am saying the board does the community and teachers a disservice to suggest it is actually offering $19 an hour for labor performed when the board knows for a fact that labor performed far exceeds 1,000 hours a year.

The board, in another presentation, would have the people believe it is willing to give teachers a 30 per cent increase in pay over three years. Ignoring the games in statistics, the fact is that the only proposal on the table by the board's admission is nine per cent over three years. My grievance isn't who to blame for the stalemate, but that a trustee would propagandize.

Almost everything the board reported statistically was in terms of what it was "willing to do" if the union would be more responsive in bargaining. The board wants to be judged by its words, not its actions, and it convinced many in the audience Monday night that they wear white hats and teachers are dirty, grubby unionists out to rape the taxpayer. Stereotypes are handy when painting images, but obscure the truth and should not be used by those elected to be community "leaders."

Monday night the board members stooped to union tactics and forgot they were elected representatives. It was a disgraceful performance and unfortunate because much of what was transmitted was accepted as gospel.

Bittersweet results for both parties

Observation Point

by PHILIP H. POWER

Esch and State Sen. Carl Pursell in Livonia and Plymouth.

FOR REPUBLICANS, the election results were bittersweet. Bill Milliken is still firmly seated in the governor's chair, but when the new Legislature convenes next year he will be surrounded by a surly and hostile majority of Democrats. The State Senate, until now controlled by the GOP, has been invaluable to the governor in acting as a buffer between the Democratic majority in the House and the administrative board. This buffer will be gone in 1975.

Clearly, Gov. Milliken will have to come to some kind of working relationship with legislative Democrats in order to see any progress in state government. This, however, will be tough, as inflation and unemployment may well encourage Democrats to take essentially partisan positions to help their constituencies.

In broader terms, Michigan Republicans now need to put out some real effort to find a palatable successor to the governor.

In an interview with this newspaper before the election, Gov. Milliken explicitly refused to rule out running for Sen. Philip Hart's seat in 1976. If he does so, there could be trouble for the state GOP, since Lieut. Gov.-elect James Dam-man of Troy has been badly damaged—rightly or wrongly—by published allegations of conflict of interest.

On the scene to succeed Milliken's unique blend of quiet, decent thoughtfulness could be Sen. Pursell, who represents Plymouth, Livonia and Redford Township, and who is now in a position to take the minority leadership in the State Senate—if he wants it.

FOR MICHIGAN'S Democrats, the aftermath of their sweep is nearly as mixed.

On the one hand, they now have a lock on the State Legislature. On the other, they lost the governorship once again.

The lock on the Legislature will be important, because it means Gov. Milliken has to come to them rather than the more even-handed situation which obtained for the past two years.

But the pressure will be on Democratic legislative leaders: The voters expect them to perform with the state's economy in such sad shape, and no state legislature can do very much about a national recession except try to cushion the blow.

On more exalted fronts—the Senate and the governorship—Democrats face problems. If Sen. Hart, as rumored, decides not to run in 1976, a wild scramble for the nomination will be on; if he does run, an equally intense scramble will take place for the gubernatorial nomination in 1978.

Despite the thoughtful and constructive campaign that Sander Levin waged, Michigan's Democrats have yet to find a man on the white horse who can replace G. Mennen Williams and John Swainson in firing the public imagination.

That will be tough. In times of trouble, it's hard to make heroes.

Brother Rice, Salem, others are credit to our towns

The annual fall madness, which we refer to as the high school football season, has ended officially for practically all teams in Michigan. The only thing left is to hand out a few accolades for jobs well done.

The communities covered by the Observer & Eccentric circulation came out extremely well during the past season. Brother Rice, of Birmingham, was acclaimed state champion by the metropolitan dailies, and Plymouth Salem went unbeaten and ended with a legitimate claim to the state crown under the Michigan High School Athletic Association ratings.

Unfortunately, state ratings do not become official for another year.

Livonia Franklin also ended the season with a clean record and also was in a position to put in a claim for the title.

Farmington Harrison High lost its final game to Plymouth Salem but won its league crown with an undefeated record.

THUS FOUR SCHOOLS in the area lost only one game. Each won its league title and each ranked high among the state's best for the entire year.

In fact, the area was marked with several championship teams including Livonia Stevenson, in the Inter-Lakes Conference; Garden City West, co-champion of the Tri-River League; Livonia Franklin, of the Northwest Suburban; Harrison in its loop—just to keep the record straight.

Of course, one can't say enough about the Brother Rice team which won the Catholic League crown and headed the rating in the Detroit News and Free Press all year.

Rice must have caught the attention of the metropolitan sports writers after the first couple of games for it was elevated to the No. 1 position and never dropped down as it went through a nine-game schedule.

R. T. Thompson writes

MOST CERTAINLY it is going to be a strange year in prep sports since the Michigan High School Athletic Association has indicated it will recognize the winner of its rating system as the mythical state champion this year.

There is a complicated point system involved, but when the final figures were announced, it was Plymouth Salem in front with Livonia Franklin second.

The sad thing about this is that the ratings of the News and Free Press do mean more this year since each newspaper will award a state championship trophy. In this instance, both have picked Brother Rice.

So tis slim pickings for Plymouth Salem. It will be recognized as the team that led the MHSAA ratings in the test year before the association finally put the football rating system into actual use.

But for all of the players on the winning teams and their coaches, a tip of the topper for a job well done. We offer the same kind of congratulations to the other teams in the area who didn't fare so well in the win column but never quit trying all year.

And to the fans. A big thank you for another successful football season without any unfortunate incidents. That's the king of spirit that enables the suburbs to play games at night under the lights.

Congratulations to all for a successful season regardless of the record.

Consumers are paying for those consumer laws

Who has consumerism legislation really helped?

America was built on the free enterprise system. Unfortunately, part of free enterprise is the concept of "let the buyer beware."

In the last several years consumer advocates like Ralph Nader have brought attention to the fact that the buyer on occasion is not too swift, and hence may be taken advantage of.

While it is not universally true, there were enough examples to get politicians moving, and new laws were passed that supposedly would protect the consumer.

The problem was that the laws were enacted in a hurry and destroyed some of the aspect of the marketplace. They replaced such activities as competition with governmental regulation.

IT IS NOTHING new to say that government action is not always quick and that governmental agencies are more subject to special interest pressure than the traditional marketplace where supply and demand rule.

In many cases the consumer is now getting exactly what he wants but is paying a much higher price for it, because industry has incurred new costs.

Examples of this are found every day in super markets, where packaging is more precise, but the cost is passed on to the consumer.

Sense And Nonsense

Maybe this is the wrong time of year to mention it to anyone but deer hunters, but did you ever notice how campgrounds are indicated on the Michigan state highway map?

State parks and state campgrounds are designated by a little red Christmas tree, but there's a big blank space at federal installations.

Eccentricities

by HANK HOGAN

ON THE OTHER hand because of consumerism legislation, the customer in many cases is getting more than he wants and more than he is willing to pay for, and hence is not buying. The result is a downturn in the sales of many businesses.

The automobile business is a good example because it is so close to home.

There is no secret that people are not buying cars like they used to. The fact that they cost a lot more than they used to hasn't helped.

A good portion of the increased costs is a result of federal regulations brought on by consumerism legislation.

THE ORDINARY driver, even though he knows it will save lives, doesn't like to strap himself into a shoulder harness every time he starts his car.

Because of federal regulation, he has had to pay, up until its repeal last month, more than $100 to have an interlock system installed, and an additional $10 or $15 to get someone to disconnect it.

It's an old adage in legislative bodies that the law that doesn't get passed seldom hurts anybody.

Laws passed under the pressure of the heat of the day normally have to be altered in the future because no one had time to measure the full long term effect of the action.

Many consumerism laws are not bearing up too well when viewed by their total impact on people's lives.

Teachers' life, pay not so bad

EDITOR:

I am truly amazed at the seeming lack of intelligence by Garden City educators. When discussing the current education situation with teachers in our city, their response is usually two-fold: "The board is not negotiating in good faith and you don't understand the issues."

I reply, "I think I do." They reply: "How can you when we don't understand them ourselves?"

That, to me, illustrates their naivete — their willingness to blindly follow leaders who won't even inform them — and yet vote approval for things they are not fully aware of. How can they possibly vote in good faith?

I took a half-day vacation to visit the administration building to ask pertinent questions that have been on my mind. They gave good and reasonable answers.

I think, too, that teachers have a pretty good life — one, incidentally, which they chose to pursue. They have pay that is comparable to industry. They have close to three months of vacation days a year — most of the summer included.

Many supplement their incomes during that time and still have a healthy four- or five-week vacation.

They have relatively short work days. (I discount the time they claim to work at home because people in industry and business work just as many hours extra — if not more — and much of it without extra pay.)

Teachers claim they have difficulties with children. They do, and I sympathize, but try being a foreman or supervisor in today's industrial militant climate, or just try being a co-worker on one of today's assembly lines.

Teachers in Garden City claim years of little consideration. I will concede that the pay scale is perhaps lower than some others — but not as many as they claim. If all those other areas have offered such fantastic things, what has kept Garden City's teachers from reaping all this abundance of flowing cash? I would have expected a mass exodus long before this.

The truth is that Garden City has been comparable for years, but as other areas grew with more industry and wealthier populations, they have pulled ahead and can afford to do so.

James T. Falk,

Schoolcraft Rd. dangerous

EDITOR:

I would like to join with R.T. Thompson in his request for barriers around excavation sites on Schoolcraft Road. Contractors who are involved in the construction of the expressway should put aside the future convenience of the superhighway and concentrate for the time being on the present safety of drivers who must travel Schoolcraft during the long construction process.

During winter months when driving is at its most dangerous, drivers need all the help they can get against the hazardous consequences of skidding on a slippery road.

I also take a more personal interest in this situation. My boyfriend narrowly escaped serious injury when his car slid on the wet, muddy curves at the intersection of Schoolcraft and Beech Dail.

I ask the contractors of the Schoolcraft expressway to install effective barriers around all excavation sites. I'm not against progress, but I do not believe that progress should stand in the way of safe driving.

Newsletters can be proper

EDITOR:

I was pleased to note Tim Richard's editorial efforts (Monday, Oct. 28) to differentiate between a tax-paid, mass mailing by an elected official that clearly serves the legitimate and important function of providing information and background on legislative matters to the constituent and the abuse of the free-mailing privilege for obvious campaign purposes in a pre-election period.

I can't reply to his reference to the "daily papers" but I do take exception to his statement that "...Common Cause makes a big odor about lawmakers and their newsletters."

Our long-standing complaint is with the tax-paid mailing of materials that can only be characterized as campaign literature. If all candidates for a particular office were afforded the privilege of one free voter mailing in which their views on important campaign issues were discussed, such an expenditure might be justified.

Common Cause believes an elected official has an obligation to inform his or her constituents of important legislative matters. The official thus encourages the expression of informed citizen response. Legislator: newsletters, properly used, are an excellent means of carrying out that obligation.

Susan Rennels, Chairperson

Working man stood in line

EDITOR:

On election day, there were a lot of people who were very inconsiderate of their neighbors' right to vote.

Many voters have to go to the polls after work, generally on their way home. It seems that a lot of neighbors have sat at home all day and about 4 p.m. they get the idea that they should vote.

They go to the polls about the time the homebound worker arrives. He finds a long line; he's in no condition to stand up for another hour or so; he says, "The hell with it," and goes home.

This happened to me. It probably has happened to many others. Somebody's thinking about time to vote needs considerable thought.

Please, no name as my neighbors know my feelings.

Coaches defy teachers' union

School strike perils Garden City sports

By TOM DONOGHUE
Sports Editor

"I am not going to let my kids down. I am going to coach anyway!"

So said Garden City West High varsity basketball coach Chris Babler after the Garden City Educational Association slammed the door on his practice sessions in preparation for the Nov. 26 opener with Wayne Memorial.

"Here these kids have worked all summer and fall and we have now gone through four weeks of official practice and now we are supposed to just quit two weeks before the season opens. No way!" asserted Babler.

The teachers are at it again in Garden City and both East and West Highs are but a portion of the students locked out of the classrooms.

Garden City was on strike the first four weeks of the current school year. But the athletic programs were allowed to continue, unlike the situation touched off the second time around.

Chief Negotiator for the Garden City Education Association, John Melchor, had his comments on the matter:

"The Association's stand at the moment is withholding all services and that includes athletics.

"We are the ones that are risking everything," added Melchor.

"I know our stand now might not seem consistent with the one we took in the fall with football but this time we gave an advance warning and everyone has known the score.

"We (the Association) demonstrated good faith in September along with concern but we now have our backs to the wall and we are going to show that we mean business this time.

"It is an unfortunate and sad situation that we have to use our youngsters as 'pawns' in this power struggle but there is more at stake than just a basketball season.

"About 97 per cent of our teachers are supporting this stand." And on the matter of the current strike starting the Monday after football season ended, Melchor said, "The date just worked out this way and there was no pressure given on finishing the football season.

"If we had decided to strike the week of the East-West football game, there would have been no game. In fact, the more I think of it, it would have been advantageous to strike then and show the board and public just how serious we are.

"We have no desire to take this thing out on the kids but we are also taking the risks on our careers. We are committed to a cause and are going to stick to our guns no matter what."

Now comes the challenge for two varsity basketball coaches to get their respective clubs ready for the upcoming season, not to say anything of all the other winter sports.

Billy Joe Young and his East Panthers are slated to open the 1974-75 season at home against Cherry Hill on Nov. 29, and like Babler's West

Tigers, are locked out of the school gym and are being instructed not to continue practice.

Over at West, Babler has made his stand clear.

"I am going to coach my kids no matter what happens," he stated. "We are going to make the best of this situation and I am going to stick with my kids. I have separated myself from teaching and coaching."

"All of these teachers who are sounding off now about athletics have never once and would never stand up for us coaches and now they are telling us to slam the door on our kids. It's just not going to happen."

Front-running Vikings bounce Royal Oak, 6-4

The Livonia Vikings knocked down Royal Oak 6-4, to remain in the No. 1 slot in the Michigan Junior B hockey loop.

Two goals in the final four minutes by Jeff Bond gave Livonia victory.

It was Livonia's 11th win against two losses and Royal Oak's third defeat in 10 outings. Ecorse Big D is still the team that can catch Livonia as it sports an eight win and one loss mark.

The Vikings play host to a winless, Westland Jay squad Saturday at Ford Ice Rink at 8 p.m. and entertain Royal Oak on Tuesday, Nov. 19, also at 8 p.m.

The key contest coming up on Li-via's slate is Nov. 23, home against Ecorse Big D.

Livonia and Royal Oak played to a one-all tie after one period and each scored a goal in the second to make it two-all heading into the final 20 minutes.

After Livonia's Steve Hodgkins put the Vikings up early in the third, Royal Oak bounced back with two quick goals to lead, 4-3.

That's when Curt Pauline slapped in his second goal of the game and 11th of the season to tie it at four-all. Bond wrapped it up with two scores to give him 11 for the campaign.

Livonia's leading scorer, Rick Pauline, came up with a solo assist to give him 13 assists to compliment his 16 goals and 29 points total. Box score:

'Brother Rice can moan and groan all it wants'

Plymouth Salem-Franklin rank 1-2 in state

It has come to pass, run and kick. The 1974 prep football campaign is in the books and it has been some kind of season for area gridders. Tom Moshimer's Plymouth Salem Rocks did it all in the Suburban Eight and George Lovich's Franklin Patriots in the Northwest loop and both finished with perfect 9-0 records and No. 1 and No. 2 in the final state rankings. In this the first year of the football playoff rankings by the Michigan High School Athletic Association, Salem and Franklin did it all. Plymouth Salem averaged 121.778 points per game in the paper playoffs and Franklin was the next highest in the state at 118.223. "The team that finishes with the highest average can rightly declare themselves state champions," commented, MHSAA Associate Director Vern Norris. And Plymouth Salem is that team and the 1974 state champion with Franklin right behind. So take your bias polls, Brother Rice, and lay claim to whatever you wish - the Rocks of Plymouth Salem have it before them in black and white and the MHSAA behind them all the way.

Observing SPORTS with TOM DONOGHUE

Birmingham Brother Rice, which has been rated No. 1 in the state by some papers could do no better than a tie for third place in the same region with Salem and Franklin. Rice could only come up with an average of 109.334 points per game in a tie with Detroit Redford. Salem's final victory of the campaign over previously unbeaten Farmington Harrison, 28-7, again had to reveal the strength of that region as Harrison still wound up fifth behind Rice and Redford with an average of 97.778 points. "We did nothing different against Harrison," commented Moshimer. "There was no special adjusting." "Before the game I told the kids that this is it, this is what they wanted and it all came to be. When asked just how he thought his Rocks would stack up against Brother Rice which won the Catholic playoffs, Moshimer said, "Rice is big and powerful and will three and four yard you to death. "I know we could move the ball against them and I don't think they could overpower us." At Franklin, it appears Lovich's final win over Bentley in overtime, 17-14, could be his last as a coach. The now athletic director at Franklin may have to limit his duties because of the time consumption of his new task. What a display his Patriots put on this '74 campaign in successfully defeating the Northwest crown. In fact, Franklin totaled 1,064 points in the state's paper playoffs-just 28 away from state champion Salem. That figure could have been closer if Thurston had beaten Redford Union in the final and if Fordson beats Edsel Ford. The difference would have been sliced to just four points. "We couldn't be happier and prouder of our year," said Lovich. "But the one thing that really irks me, our kids and their parents is the rankings around Michigan. We haven't had a bad record the last seven years, standing at 49-9-1. "In those 59 games, we have 23 shut-outs and 17 games where our opponents haven't score more than one touchdown. "Plus we have never been shut out!" Franklin saw its No. 8 ranking in the state last year vanish when it lost to Bentley in the finale. That upset didn't occur this season and Lovich's Patriots are ranked and in fact, No. 2 in the state behind Salem. "The ratings by the Free Press and News the past years including this one just haven't been fair," said Lovich. "This new paper playoff and point system puts everyone on the same level and everyone knows what they have to do. There is no favorite playing in this thing. "When I ask the downtown papers why about our ratings, it was comment really with no reason," added the Franklin coach. "I am sure that if North Farmington had gone 9-0 this year instead of us, they would have been rated higher. "As for this year y-s sir, we are No. 2 in the state. "State rankings up to now have never been objective. Brother Rice can moan and groan all they want but it's right there in front of them in black and white. "There is no playing the favorite role from now on. "Now I am not saying that this new system is the answer but it's the best to date," finished Lovich. Yes, the best to date has Plymouth Salem on top in the state and Livonia Franklin second. Besides teams realizing they are going to have to win all their games now, you are going to see schools start juggling their schedules to play the tougher teams. Also this new playoff system is going to force the parochial schools to start playing Class A teams outside their league. This idea is going to open a whole new ball game as the majority of the public schools don't want to play the parochial teams because of their recruiting tactics. "Maybe, just maybe...this new playoff gimmick could straighten out a few things in prep athletics.

MHSAA names Salem No. 1

Chalk up year No. 1 of the football paper playoffs to-the "Year of the Rocks." Tom Moshimer's Plymouth Salem team came up with 1,096 points in its 9-0 perfect season for an average of 121.778 points per game and captured the top billing in the state. Livonia Franklin George Lovich and Co., wound up No. 2 in the overall state rankings with an 118.223 points per game. The scoring method for the playoff which is scheduled to get underway on the gridiron next year was: Points are received if a team wins or ties its games: 80 points if you defeat a Class A team 40 points if you tie a Class A team; 64 points if you defeat a Class B team and 32 points if you tie a Class B team; 48 points if you defeat a Class C team and 24 points if you tie a Class C team; 32 points if you defeat a Class D team and 16 points if you tie a Class D team. Bonus points were earned as follows: eight points for each game one of your opponents that you defeated wins; four points for each game one of your opponents you defeated ties; four points for each game one of your opponents you tied wins; one point for each game one of the opponents you tied ties and one point for an opponent that defeated you wins. Pairings set for 10th

The pairings for the 10th annual Great Lakes invitational college hockey tournament slated for Olympia Stadium on Friday, Dec. 27 and Saturday, Dec. 28, have been announced. In the first round competition scheduled for 6 p.m. on Dec. 27, Michigan will face Harvard. Immediately following that contest, Michigan Tech will take on Yale. The consolation and championship games will be played on the 28th, also beginning at 6 p.m. Tech, winner of the tourney in 1968, 1970 and 1971, is the host school and will be making its 10th appearance. Michigan, a tournament invitee every other year has won the American Airlines Cup only once, in 1966, and Harvard has made only one prior appearance in the event at Olympia. That was in 1972 when the Crimson defeated Michigan Tech for the Cup. Yale will be making its first appearance in the Great Lakes.

Wolverines fear Purdue jinx

'Old Ghost' to haunt Michigan

By W.W. EDGAR

There's a time honored saying in Western Conference football circles that goes, "If you must win a game, don't play Purdue!"

Over the years the Boilermakers, who invade Michigan Stadium Saturday afternoon, have created more upsets and ruined more seasons for opponents than any other team in the Big Ten.

Season after season, as soon as the leaves began to fall, you could always hear the cry coming from the University of Chicago where the immortal Amos Alonzo Stagg was head coach, "Stagg fears Purdue."

In fact, it was often stated that the news media of that day kept those words in a standing headline.

This fear of Purdue now has struck the Michigan campus and in view of Michigan State's upset of Ohio State and the rather mediocre showing of the Wolverines in their last few games, is looked upon as cause of the uneasiness.

It matters little that Purdue has won few games this year. What does matter is the fact that the Boilermakers pointed for Notre Dame and wrecked its chances for retaining the national championship in the first weeks of the season.

You can be sure they will point for Michigan. So there is certain to be a struggle on Saturday.

Here is the picture now that Ohio State has been beaten:

The Buckeyes have only Iowa to meet before the game with Michigan and should win easily after that bitter loss at Michigan State. That would send them into the Michigan game with only one defeat.

On the other hand, Michigan must beat Purdue, the "spoiler", to go into the game against Ohio undefeated.

If this happens, Michigan could win a share of the Big Ten even with a defeat at Columbus. But going into the game with a loss against Purdue would have the traditional rivals tied at 8-1 and the Big Ten title and Rose Bowl at stake.

In view of Michigan's performances on the road, this could be a dangerous position. So, it readily can be seen that Michigan MUST beat Purdue.

This always has been a frightening position when you need the victory.

This frantic position all came about when the Spartans of Michigan State made that gallant goal line stand Saturday and took much of the glamour from the impending Michigan-Ohio State game.

There had been visions that the Wolverines and the Buckeyes would go into that game undefeated and be playing for No. 1 ranking and possibly the national championship.

That all changed when the Spartans downed Ohio and put the pressure on the Wolverines to beat Purdue and be satisfied with what could be a share of the Big Ten title.

In The Pocket

By W.W. EDGAR

The grand old game of toppling tenpins has come a long way since the early days in America when it was outlawed because of the gambling element and later when it was considered just a side attraction in the nation's saloons.

Today it has moved from the alleys and side streets to the main thoroughfares with glittering lights and has a hold on people of all ages from four years to 90. More than that, it is now considered the best therapy for senior citizens and the best relaxation to remove tension among professional men.

And, strange as it may seem, the game now is one of the favorites among blind persons.

Years ago a chap named Harry Hunter of Detroit, started the promotion of blind bowling — and advanced the cause as far as national tournaments.

HOW COULD THE blind bowl — if they couldn't see the pins?

They needed help to be sure. This was provided by the installation of an iron railing along the side of the approach. The bowler would slide his or her hand along the railing to a certain point and then release the ball. If he was to shoot at a spare he was taken to the approach, placed in position, and then told which pins were standing.

Another method was the use of a rug on the approach. The blind bowler was placed on the rug, then told to take his four steps to reach the end of the rug and then let the ball go.

While either method seemed difficult the blind bowlers enjoyed the game and the scores were almost unbelievable.

AS A TENSION remover the best example was furnished some years ago by Dr. O.L. Brooker, the well-known Livonia physician.

He always carried a bowling ball with him in his car. And any night that he had a tough time of it in the hospital, he would stop at any bowling establishment enroute home and bowl a few games — even if he had to bowl by himself.

Dr. E.R. Reinsh, of Southfield, is another medical man who uses bowling to relax. A left hander, he rolls a wicked ball and makes it a point to put in several hours of practice every Wednesday afternoon at Westland Bowl. For years he bowled and captained a team and seldom missed a night of league competition.

AS THERAPY for senior citizens and residents of the nursing homes throughout the area, there is no finer example than the Middlebelt Nursing Home located between Schoolcraft and Five Mile Road.

Here the residents have their own league. Special lanes have been built about the height of a dining table. Guard rails have been installed to prevent the balls from rolling off the side.

These elderly people, many of them in wheel chairs, sit at the end of the lane and push the ball toward the pins instead of rolling it. And they attract quite a gallery on league nights.

At the end of the season they have their banquet (no bowling season is officially ended without the traditional banquet). It is a big night and no trophy awarded anywhere is more appreciated than those these elderly residents clutch in the arms. What fun they have!

The latest move is to the blind children to help brighten what otherwise would be a dark life for them. Mrs. Marsha Lear, of Garden City, now has a group ranging in age from 7 to 12 years, taking their turn at the pins.

No one would have believed, such things would be possible years ago when the game was an adjunct to a saloon and outlawed in New York state because of gambling. The old game has come a long way.

BONNIE BARNES, who bowls in the ladies classic at Garden Lanes each week, is cutting quite a swath in all-star leagues in the area.

Several weeks ago, as a member of the Pine Tree Bowl team, she fired a 702 series. She was the first woman to break the 700 barrier this season.

Since then she has been "scoring well and only this past week rolled a 638 in the Ladies Major League to help keep her team high up in the race. Included in her big series was a 254 game.

Don Mc Cloud will have good reason never to forget this past week in the Wonderland Classic.

Taking his regular turn as a member of the Harron team he opened with a 236, followed with a 258 and closed with 286 for a 780 series — one of the best he ever has bowled.

Meanwhile the Viscount team rolled a 3226 to pace the league that now is being recognized as one of the highest scoring leagues in the entire metropolitan Detroit area.

Two new members were admitted into the 700 club during the past week.

One of them, Andy De Camillo, bowling in the senior house league in Bel-Aire Lanes, was well on his way toward a perfect game with nine strikes in a row. Then he left up a stubborn No. 7 pin and had to settle for a 279 to go with games of 210 and 219 for a 708.

The other was the veteran Hal Jolley who linked games of 221, 2243 and 236 for an even 700 in the Classic in Westland Bowl.

Farmington's newest establishment, Drakeshire Lanes, had its first perfect game last Friday night when Quentin Eathorne, a 160 average bowler, opened with the 300 and dropped back to 178 and 155 for a 633.

At the same time Randy Hackerson topped the 7-10 split—the first in the new house.

High scoring continued in Bel-Aire as Greg Hatter fashioned a 689 and Bill Cooper a 658 in the Classic along with a 674 by Tom McCullough, a 682 by Ken Cummins and a 691 by Jerry Lidgely.

All told, there were 35 series in double century figures in the Classic. The team series also reached a new peak, with Kliffel Tires posting a 3207 and Eve's Flowers 3127.

Behind Jolley at Westland Bowl came Bernie Peters and Leo Scantamburlo who deadlocked at 661. Bernie had the high game of the night with a 278.

In the Ladies Classic, Shirley Le Blanc, a 140 average bowler, had a 242 game in 605. It was her first 600 series.

The bowlers found the range in Plymouth Bowl too, where double century figures ruled the lanes. Marge Gooper paced the Elkettes with a 639; Don Leichtweis had a 257 in 684 in the Industrial league; and Gerry Wnuk paced St. Raphael with a 289 in 672.

The ladies also did well in Woodland where Nancy Chaffey had a 219 single game, while Rita Wright had a 502 series and Shon McAuliffe a 508.

U-M Press Hall of Fame increases number to 18

Two of the finest sports photographers in Michigan, a Detroit sports writer who was one of the finest analysts in college football, and a sports editor who covered the Wolverines for more than 38 years have been voted into the The University of Michigan Press Box Hall of Fame.

Honored by sportswriters and editors were: James R. "Scotty" Kilpatrick from the Detroit News; Tommy Devine of the Detroit Free Press; Harold "Hap" Funk of the Monroe Evening News and Eck Stanger of the Ann Arbor News. Only Stanger is living.

Kilpatrick joined the News staff in Detroit in 1930 and his photographs, LEADING RECEIVER on Wayne State University's 1974 football team is freshman split end Dean Morrison, a graduate of Livonia Franklin High School. What's more Morrison isn't a starter but the 6-foot-1, 180 pounder has 12 grabs for 250 yards and is one of three yearlings from Franklin. Morrison was joined by second-string linebacker Randy Epley and defensive end Tim Ninnis who has been hurt most of the season.

Stags announce ticket policy

Introduction of a new ticket-group policy for youngsters at Michigan Stags hockey games at Cobo Arena has been announced.

Effective immediately, groups of 20 or more, which will include adult escorts, may purchase tickets in the end zone, regularly priced at $6 for $2 each.

Upper balcony seats will be available for youth groups at $1 each.

Group ticket orders for youngsters must be submitted to the Michigan Stags' office at 30100 Telegraph at least 10 days before the game selected.

earned him various honors and awards. Devine, who distinguished himself as one of the foremost analysts of college football, covered Michigan for the Free Press from 1946 through 1957.

Funk joined the Monroe Evening News in 1929 and served as sports editor for 38 years. Stanger was chief photographer for the Ann Arbor News for 40 years and covered every Michigan-Michigan State game and 38 Michigan-Ohio State contests during that period.

The election of these four increases the number of Hall of Fame inductees which includes the Observer & Eccentric's own Eddie Edgar to 18.

Ocelots advance to inter-regionals

Larry Christoff's Schoolcraft College soccer squad split a pair of 3-2 decisions in regional action at Elyria, Ohio over the weekend to gain a spot in the regionals in Chicago, this weekend.

The Ocelots downed Macomb Community College, 3-2, but then lost an overtime clash by the same score to Lakeland College of Ohio.

Both teams advanced to Chicago.

Schoolcraft's victory over Macomb was paced by Kami Asdigha with two goals and Jorge Palma's solo. Palma also scored both Ocelot goals in the Lakeland loss which was decided in a 15-minute sudden victory overtime period.

Forwards Palma and Asdigha were named to the all-tourney squad along with backs John Klecha and John Simpson and goalie John Dykzeul.

Schoolcraft will be carrying an overall 9-3 mark to the regionals at College of DuPage in Chicago with the winner of four teams moving on to the nationals in Baltimore on Nov. 29-30.

Turf Tips, Quips

By Doc Minard

With Wolverine Raceway closed and no major harness racing meeting scheduled in the metropolitan Detroit area until after the first of the year, it is interesting to look at the attendance and betting figures for the Jackson-Northville and Windsor meetings.

If one cares to add the nightly attendance at the two meetings and the wagering, he would find it just about equals what Wolverine wound up with as season averages.

What does that prove? Well, he would have to say it definitely points to there being a certain amount of money and customers available. If Wolverine or Hazel Park harness tracks are operating, there are so many people that turn out nightly and the total betting is about the same.

However, if Jackson is operating at Northville against competition from Windsor, then it is the same number of people but split between the two tracks.

Incidentally, Jackson found itself in a big bind when comparing figures for the first week a year ago with those this year. The handle and attendance were down considerably. The reason... Windsor was dark for a week a year ago by a strike of mutual clerks and Jackson had the only game operating at night.

Things were normal last week with Jackson going big on the weekends and on Mondays when Windsor is dark. The Canadian track has a big edge with its Sunday night programs.

WITH THE re-election of Gov. Milliken, one wonders if there will be a change in the racing commissioner. Rumors were rampant in Lansing last week that such a change was to be, but we won't believe it until Milliken makes the announcement.

The racing boss serves at the pleasure of the governor and Leo Shirley was reappointed four years ago.

From Columbus, O. comes word that Frederick Van Lennep, president of Wolverine Raceway, chairman of the board of Castleton Industries which controls Pompano Park and Castleton Farm among other enterprises, has been elected into the U.S. Harness Writers Living Hall of Fame.

He will be honored with Driver-Trainer Howard Beissinger and track owner James Dunnigan Sr. at the 27th annual USHWA awards banquet on Dec. 8 in Ellenville, N.Y.

Van Lennep has raced many of the sport's finest horses such as triple crown champion Speedy Scot, Race Time, Dartmouth, and 1974 world champions Alert Bret and Colonial Charm.

ARMBRO OMAHA, the standout contender for honors as three year old of the year, added new laurels to his list recently when he won the $151,044 Messenger Pace at Roosevelt Raceway.

Armbro Omaha was one of the entries in the Matron pace at Wolverine but didn't quite get up in the finale. Then two weeks later he dominated the field in the Little Brown Jug at Delaware, O.

There isn't much question but that he will be heralded as the three year old of 1974 and perhaps horse of the year. Dream of Glory, the unheralded three year old trotter who wasn't staked in any of the major events but whipped all of the top contenders consistently, appears in line for the three year old trotting award. The voting is taking place now but there appears to be little chance the harness experts will change their minds.

FROM NORTHVILLE DOWNS, one learns that Chris Boring will do quite a bit of catch driving during the current meeting. Chris took all of his stock to Adrian for a rest before, resulting racing and, probably won't have many of his own horses in action until after the first of the year.

Meanwhile, he has been doing quite well in catching drives and coming through with winners. Chris lets it be known when he'll be available and the owners keep him busy.

Al Jacoby, who handles advertising for Wolverine Raceway and the Detroit Race Course through his Detroit agency, has opened a new office in Florida to take care of the advertising for Pompano Park and other Castleton Industries enterprises in that section.

It was Al who coined the phrase, getting a chance on 55 at Pompano and on 34 at Wolverine. What he means is that bettors have that many opportunities to wager during the course of the evening.

The slogan did quite a bit for Pompano Park which had its best year last season and helped Wolverine set records in the spring of 1973 and the fall of 1974.

One paneled wall: room comes alive

For most people, the term redecorating brings to mind expensive and extensive modifications, a great deal of trouble and inconvenience.

While this may be the case with many renovations, it needn't be so in many situations.

In many instances, the addition of one wall of paneling can change the entire appearance of a room.

In the room at left, for example, the decorating goal was to achieve the most dramatic change at the least possible cost.

Replacement of floor or window coverings was ruled out, so was replacement of furniture.

A single wall, in this case two sheets of 4 by 8 prefinished hardboard paneling, was decided upon. The paneling is Masonite Briarcliff, a rich simulation of oak panel inserts highlighted by detailed panel strips.

The elegant, formal appearance of the wall paneling, it was felt, would give the room added depth and dimension.

Everything else in the room was left the same.

The difference (right) is apparent.

AFTER

Plant of the week

There are many species of caladium. Caladium bicolor is a native of Trinidad, Brazil and Guiana. Its firm leaves, shaped like an arrowhead, are green with red veins and scattered white spots.

Caladiums grow profusely during the spring and summer and are dormant during the winter. Some varieties have red, pink or variegated leaves.

For ideal growth of all calladiums,

Michigan State University horticulturists suggest:

SOIL—Should be rich in humus, peat moss, sphagnum moss or shredded fir bark. If drainage is a problem add broken brick, charcoal, granite chips, perlite or coarse sand to the soil mixture.

WATER—Keep the soil evenly moist but not constantly wet. Allow it to become slightly dry between waterings. During the winter, when it is not actively growing, it may need less water.

TEMPERATURES should range from 60 to 65 degrees F at night and 80 degrees F during the day. The caladium will withstand low temperatures found in most homes this winter with thermostats turned down. During the summer, place the plants outdoors for a period of time to get fresh air.

LIGHT—Indirect or diffused sunlight will provide the light needed for healthy growth. Keep out of direct sunlight, preferably near an east window.

PROPAGATION is by division of tubers in the spring.

How to make your own sauerkraut

The Green Thumb

By GEORGE ABRAHAM

Many gardeners raised their own cabbage, but not many are aware they can make a chocolate sauerkraut cake that's out of this world.

Early and late cabbage can be used, as can the red or green types. Remove the outer leaves, and the core (use the grated core for soups, stews or salads). Shred the solid heads into thin slices. Pack it promptly in a clean jar or crock, using alternate layers of cabbage and salt.

Use one pound of salt to 40 pounds of cabbage or 1/2 lb of salt for 20 pounds of cabbage. You can make layers about 1/2 inch thick with sprinklings of salt over each one. If any salt remains, sprinkle it on the top. Try to portion out the cabbage so you do not run out of salt for the top layers. In any case, do not add extra salt as the brine will be too salty.

THE CABBAGE should be covered with a clean, round board that just fits inside the crock. It's a good idea to put a piece of cheesecloth over the cabbage before adding the board to keep pieces of cabbage from floating up with the brine. Weight the board down with a clean, washed rock. Do not use a pitch pine board as it will cause off flavor.

After fermentation is complete, skim off any scum that forms. If the kraut is to be kept in a cool place, probably no seal is needed. If in a warm place, the kraut can be sealed by pouring melted paraffin over the top.

Some people prefer sea salt, but regular table salt can be used. You can add a few caraway seed, or dill or celery, to give the kraut an interesting flavor.

NOW, FOR THE chocolate sauerkraut cake recipe. If you'd like this, plus others, send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope and ask for a copy of our booklet "34 Selected Recipes for Using Sauerkraut."

GREEN THUMB CLINIC: "We have a wax or parlor plant and cannot get the thing to bloom. What is the secret?"

Answer: The hoyas or "parlor" plants are real gems, but often very disappointing when it comes to blooms. Hoya carnososa, the popular wax plant has fragrant, pinkish white flowers, with a star shaped crown. H. carnososa variegata has leaves bordered in white and pink-tinged.

Most hoyas like a light or semi-sunny window, a soil mixture of sand, peat and loam. Water heavily and not again until the top surface has dried out. Gardeners who have had success with hoyas will tell you this drying out is needed for the development of good root system. Start new plants by leaf cuttings in water or moist sand.

GREEN THUMB CLINIC: "We have some ivy geraniums and want to start new ones. Can they be started in plain tap water or should we use something special?"

ANSWER: Many use plain water for rooting the ivy geranium. Moist sand, and perlite are also used. Place a plastic sheet over the rooting cuttings to keep them humid and to hasten rooting.

GREEN THUMB CLINIC: "We want to grow the ground cherry or husk tomato. Are they difficult?"

ANSWER: No, start the seed (many seed houses sell it) now, in pots and when warm weather comes set them out. They'll fruit the first year and give you enough for all the pies, jams and topping you can eat. Everyone should grow some husk tomatoes.

Home & Garden

Bathroom greenery

DRAMATIC GARDEN BATH is one of many decorating ideas in a new planning guide called the "Garden Bath Book." Scores of suggestions are included in the 32-page book which is available by sending $1 to Dept. NR, 4656 W. Touhy Ave., Chicago, Ill. 60646.

Plan storage flat on floor

Camping, golf, hunting and fishing gear all can be stored in a single unit, if it is designed with a little care.

One way to determine shelf spacing in tall, open storage for items of many sizes and shapes is first to "act" it out on the floor.

Define the perimeter first with actual boards or with lines on wrapping paper or newspaper to form a template.

Then arrange the gear within this box, starting with the heavier and larger items near the bottom, aligned as they'll rest in the unit after it is upright.

Lighter and smaller items will be easily put away on the upper shelves. Shelf locations can be adjusted for both appearance and to minimize the number needed.

After top, bottom and two sides are fastened together, the verticle divider pieces generally can go in place ahead of the shelves. Western pine and hemlock are ideal shelving pieces.

To vary the appearance, doors can be installed readily at the front of one or two sections, or drawers can be set in. They will be useful for protecting small tools and sports gear, behind lock and key, if necessary.

Colonial homemakers' bouquets still popular

This Thanksgiving, as we decorate our table and home with flowers and fruit in anticipation of a happy family dinner, those same flowers can remind us that we have many reasons to be thankful for a land that remains beautiful in spite of pollution, and bountiful in spite of inflation.

The Pilgrim's had scant sugar with which to sweeten the tart wild berries they gathered during the early years when taming the wilderness was the first goal to be achieved in the new land. And their gardens were planted, of necessity, not for pleasure but for ingredients urgently needed for medicine, flavorings, dyes for handwoven cloth, and even insect repellents.

But even as we imagine the long hours the Pilgrim mother spent in creating a home for her family, we can imagine the pleasant fragrances and bright-colored flowers her garden produced.

barren fields soon will be renewed with the bright flowers of spring.

So as we place the flowers and fruits upon our Thanksgiving table, we need not wonder whether a colonial Elizabeth or Matilda, far from her birthland and family, once gave a sigh of thanks for the pleasing color and fragrance of her "gillyflowers" and "everlastings" as well as for their practical value.

We can be sure she did.

FALL HARVEST of dried materials makes an attractive fall arrangement. Gather your own and add exotic supplements from your florist.

Christmas decorating is topic

A two-part program on decorating for Christmas winds up the fall series of "How does your Garden Grow" lectures.

Edmund J. Boell, horticulture supervisor for the Detroit Department of Recreation, will present "Christmas Decorations—Part One" from noon to 1 p.m., Monday, Nov. 18, in the second floor auditorium of the Michigan Consolidated Gas Company, One Woodward Avenue, Detroit.

Boell will show how to make Christmas decorations for use indoors and outdoors. Part II will be presented on Monday, Nov. 25.

These free lectures are open to all and are sponsored jointly by the Michigan Horticultural Society, the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service and the Michigan Consolidated Gas Company.

The Stroller

Ode to the volunteer

As the price of food keeps soaring and the ranks of the unemployed grow longer, people are becoming a bit panicky with thoughts of a depression and asking, in plaintive tones, "What will we do?"

Well, there is no telling just what we will do as each one of these fractures in the economy takes a different twist that requires a different remedy.

It so happens that The Stroller has lived through a few of them and the memory of each comes back when asked the question, "What will we do?"

For instance, there were the "hard times" of the late '20s and early '30s when the banks closed and the stock market crashed. Folks were then asking the same question. But we came out of those dark days with the use of scrip (paper money manufactured in places other than the U.S. mint.)

IT WAS THE CLEVER handling of the finances through this homemade money that started Al Cobo, up the political ladder to become one of Detroit's most dynamic mayors.

The City of Detroit borrowed him from the Burrough's company to handle its finances and "Little Al" steered the ship so well through the crisis that he was elected city treasurer and later the mayor. And he handled that job so well, the big convention hall in the downtown civic center was named for him.

Prior to that there was another period, right after World War I in which the folks became more than a little frantic. Mind you, this was back in the days before we had such things as unemployment compensation, food stamps, and the welfare programs we now have to ease the sinking feelings of a depression.

Every time The Stroller recalls those days he has visions of the old brick volunteer fire hall back home.

It was a two story affair with the equipment on the street level, a pool room and meeting quarters upstairs and card rooms and a kitchen in the basement.

It wasn't much to look at. But in the dark days of these periodic depressions it was the unemployed men's castle.

SHORTLY AFTER the armistice in 1918 there was a terrible dip in in the economy as the defense plants turned to their former use and most every man in our old home town was out or work-with no jobs to be had.

It was then that we turned to the old fire hall. It was a haven for those who wanted to get away from the boredom of sitting around the house, moaning about conditions.

This old fire hall was the answer. Our home town couldn't afford paid firemen. It had to depend on volunteers. For that reason reason there were no complaints about the daily gatherings. As a matter of fact, our daily sessions were welcomed as they provided that much more fire protection.

These gatherings were economical, too. Each morning, we would drop 15 cents into the pot and elect a captain for the day. He'd gather in the donations and head up town to buy a soup bone and a bag of beans. On his return we'd have a big pot of bean soup which was our sustenance for the remainder of the day.

We also kept a directory of all the beer saloons in town. And each morning we'd call the next in line and ask for a donation.

THE RESPONSE was always the same-- "go down to the brewery, get a keg, and charge it to me."

There was always the feeling that it would be too bad for the fellow who turned us down if his place caught fire.

The Stroller has to laugh every time he recalls the afternoon the Presbyterian minister, Rev. Peter White, dropped into the fire hall for a visit.

He wasn't shocked at what he saw. He joined in the fun with a bowl of soup, played a game of pool, and eagerly watched the card games.

Then, late in the afternoon, he arose, took his hat, and bade us goodbye with these words:

"Now that I have paid you a visit, you can do the same by returning it on Sunday morning."

Would you believe it? We accepted the invitation and more than 20 of us sat in the front pews that next Sunday morning.

It was a visit from the minister to the old fire hall that took our minds off the troubled times and left us with a fond memory.

So, whatever happens this time, it too will leave us with memories we can laugh at in the years to come.

Symphony plays second show Sunday, Nov. 17

Now in its 29th season, the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra has performed more than 1,000 works. And yet, for the second concert of this season, conductor Wayne Dunlap has selected three works never before offered a local audience.

They are "Creation of the World" by Milhaud, the first clarinet concerto of Weber and the first symphony of Sibelius, and each is in a totally different style.

The concert is Sunday, Nov. 17 at 4 p.m. in Plymouth Salem High School, Joy west of Canton Center Road.

OF "CREATION," Dunlap says. "Darius Milhaud heard an American Negro jazz band in the early 1920s and vowed he would write in that style. When he came to the United States, he went to Harlem and heard more. Back in France, he wrote an African version of the Creation orchestra."

The tone poem is scored for a group of instruments hardly larger than a combo, but especially strong on percussion. Featured is a saxophone solo. Milhaud died earlier this year.

Carl Marion von Weber's clarinet concerto, with John Mohler as soloist, dates to 1811 and bridges the classical and Romantic styles.

JEAN SIBELIUS, the 20th century Finn, wrote what Dunlap calls "a fairly contemporary masterpiece in the repertory." It was composed in 1899. Unlike classical composers who state a theme and embellish it, says Dunlap, "Sibelius never states the theme. He just develops it until you hear the theme at the end."

Admission for the Nov. 17 concert is $3 for adults with K-12 students admitted free. Senior citizens' tickets prices are reduced.

Baby-sitting by qualified girl scouts is provided. Free bus rides for senior citizens are provided from the Tonquish Manor residence in Plymouth.

'Odessa' wins at intrigue

By SUE ROSIEK

The "Odessa File," starring Jon Voight and Maximilian Schell, is a great example of suspense and intrigue in current times and definitely worth viewing.

It's the story of Peter Miller (Voight), a young, enterprising German journalist, who infiltrates a secret organization of former Nazi SS men in order to track Captain Eduard Roschmann (Schell), commandant of the Riga concentration camp.

Roschmann is now a businessman whose company is secretly making bubonic-plague missiles which he intends to sell to Nasser to destroy Israel.

MILLER, becomes involved with a friend of his in the police department.

offers him the diary of an old Jewish man, whose wife was killed in Roschmann's concentration camp.

The diary provides an in-depth description of concentration camp atrocities and recounts the deeds of Roschmann, who was reported to have ordered the execution of some 80,000 Jews.

The story takes place in Germany in 1963, some 20 years after Roschmann reportedly disappeared. The elderly Jew spots Roschmann coming out of a local opera house and alerts the police. His reports are overlooked and, feeling disgusted and helpless, he kills himself.

Miller picks up the search and allows himself to be beaten and pushed onto the tracks of an oncoming train. All for the "story," and possibly to avenge the atrocities committed?

That's partially true, but Miller has other motives and therein lies a surprise.

VOIGHT delivers an excellent performance as the writer, who stumbles onto the biggest story of his life. His characterization lets the audience believe his journalistic motives are the driving force behind his investigation.

The movie is based on the best-selling novel by Frederick Forsyth, who used factual SS and West German records. The film is exciting and a great combination of fact and fiction transformed into a thriller.

Forsyth's research indicated Roschmann was at the Riga camp from 1941-44, and that he later fled to South America and reportedly had returned to Germany in the '60s.

SHELL is excellent as the young Roschmann, and later as the burned-out old commander who, when confronted by Miller, insists he was simply following orders "like a good soldier."

Roschmann's attempt at changing Miller's mind proves futile as Miller's true motive shocks Roschmann and the audience.

The movie, directed by Ronald Neame is rated PG (parental guidance suggested). It has its share of blood, and a little sex. It's basically a thriller and doesn't exploit any one device.

The only sexual episode is Miller's brief scene with his girlfriend—roommate, Sigi. The scene helps describe Miller's personality and some of his depth which is later developed.

NOAH (Howard Egan) shows the gitka to his wife, Esther (Shirley Hulet) and son, Ham (David Groen), right. The gitka was an animal from olden times which appeared as an omen before the other animals gathered to enter the Ark. According to Noah, "the gitka is the only creature on earth who sings in the presence of God."

Theater Guild set to present Rodger's musical 'Two by Two'

The Theater Guild of Livonia-Redford is in the final weeks of rehearsal of "Two by Two," a Richard Rodgers musical production based on Clifford Odets' poetic retelling of the legend of Noah's Ark. "The Flowering Peach."

The musical features Howard Egan as Noah. Egan has had leading roles in many guild shows including "Oliver," "The Lion in Winter," and "I Never Sang for My Father."

Noah, the grandson of Methuselah, is a chicken farmer living a distance from town with his wife, Esther, played by Shirley Hulet of Livonia, and his youngest son Japheth, Warren Reinecker. Ms. Hulet has appeared recently in "And Miss Reardon Drinks a Little." Reinecker has been seen in "Butterflies Are Free," and "The Real Inspector Hound."

Other cast members include Doug Kerr of Livonia as Shem, Noah's oldest son; Jean Schirmer as Leah, and David Groen of Redford as Ham, middle son.

Others include Delores Thomas of Livonia as Rachel and Julie Milazzo of Livonia as Goldie.

"Two by Two," a testament to the eternal power of human rejuvenation, is presented in language pertinent to today.

Performances are scheduled for Nov. 22, 23, 29 and 30 and Dec. 1, 5, 6, 7, and 8 at the Guild playhouse, 15138 Beech Daly, just south of Five Mile Road. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m., 7:30 on Sundays.

Seating is limited and reservations are suggested. For tickets or information, call Mrs. David Tucker, 11414 Auburndale, or Mrs. C. Foster, 16772 Country Club Drive, Livonia.

MCA seminars scheduled at Eastern Michigan

The first comprehensive seminar to define and explain methods and techniques in applying for arts-related grant money from state, federal and private sources will be held Nov. 19 at Eastern Michigan University. "Grantmanship in the Arts" is co-sponsored by the Michigan Council for the Arts.

About 50 participants representing arts organizations in southeastern Michigan will explore sources of funds, including the Michigan Council, the National Endowment for the Arts and various private foundations and trusts.

Morning sessions will be devoted to providing detailed information as to sources and grant categories available. The afternoon activities will involve small discussion groups concentrating on a specific type of grant or area of concern.

Lee Katz, director of special projects and research development in the EMU campus, is general chairman of the conference assisted by members of the Michigan council. The EMU meeting will be a pilot program to establish a format for similar conferences throughout the state during the next six months.

Dauch, Kearney reassigned by GM in manager shifts

After serving under six plant managers for the Livonia Chevrolet Spring and Bumper division and then devoting 10 years in Cleveland and Bay City, Bernard J. Kearney has returned to assume the duties of plant manager of the Livonia operation.

The announcement was made late last week when Richard Dauch, Spring and Bumper chief for the past year and a half, was appointed assistant zone manager of sales in Chevrolet's Detroit zone effective Nov. 1.

DAUCH, 32, joins the division's sales organization after 10 years serving in various Chevrolet manufacturing assignments.

Kearney joined Chevrolet in Toledo immediately following his graduation from St. John's High School. He received his bachelor's degree in industrial engineering from General Motors Institute and took post graduate courses at the University of Toledo.

Following service in World War II, he was employed at the Chevrolet plant in Cleveland, Chevrolet central office and the Livonia plant. In 1968 he was named manager of the Cleveland Pressed Metal Plant and then became plant manager in Bay City in March 1972.

Dauch, a resident of Bloomfield Hills, began his career with Chevrolet in 1964 as a college graduate, in training at the Flint Assembly plant. He was promoted to foreman in 1965, general foreman in 1967, superintendent for truck production in 1968, superintendent of inspection in 1971 and general superintendent in July 1971.

He was named plant manager at Livonia in 1973.

KEARNEY WAS first assigned to the Spring and Bumper plant in 1957 and served under plant managers Charles McKinney, R.B. Dow, A.W. Whitmer, Leo Seidl, Bert Anderson and Thomas Carroll before being transferred to Ohio in 1964.

"The years have brought many major changes to the Livonia plant," he said Thursday in his first day on the new job. "All for the better I might say. But it's just like returning home to come back here where I served for so many years under so many plant managers."

Kearney and his wife, Irma, are parents of two sons, Bernie and Bill, both of whom are in General Motors programs.

The Kearney and Dauch promotions were among several top level appointments announced by James McLendon, general manufacturing manager. The changes placed new managers at five Chevrolet plants.

Madonna beginners learn TV production

By DARLENE STINSON

Dolly in camera two and cue the talent!

That's what's heard every Wednesday night in Room 240 of Madonna College, where students enrolled in a beginning television production course scurry to the commands of a director to produce their own television product.

The four-credit course, taught by Charles D. Derry, stage manager for WXYZ television, is aimed at students who knew nothing about television production before the first day of class, but whose line of work demands some knowledge of television production techniques.

A make-your-own-movie craze, which hit industry and educational institutions a few years back, stimulated the purchase of thousands of dollars worth of television production equipment, Derry explained. But, for lack of the technical knowledge needed to use it, the equipment has only created films of dust.

TO WIPE clean the dust and roll out the cameras are the purposes of the course, in which students are taught the technical know-how needed to produce "industrial" movies, those used by schools and industries for instructional purposes.

"You have a lot of schools and industrial places that bought television equipment," Derry explained. "They'd like someone to use it, but a lot of it just sits there, because no one knows how. To reach the maximum number of people when a guest speaker comes in, for example, they want to record it. Just doing that is sometimes a formidable task for some people. They're stuck with the equipment, and we want to show them how to put it to practical use."

"I would say the students are mainly taking the course for information. Their bosses have said, 'Make me a movie,' and they don't know how."

EACH STUDENT in the class is responsible for the production of one five-minute movie, Derry said.

That student must write the script and create the graphics, while others man the cameras, lights and audio equipment. Students take their turns in the director's chair.

"On his shoulders rests the entire production," Derry said of the director. "He's the person who must do all the necessary work."

"He doesn't touch a thing, but, by his words, he's making the production. You sit in the director's chair and you say big deal-until you try it."

The director instructs the cameramen how to take each shot and tells the technical director which camera picture he wants televised, Derry explained. He instructs the audioman and the talent.

The producer must present his ideas to the director, so the movie turns out as he wants it, Derry said.

DERRY URGES the students to give an entertainment twist to the instructional films they create.

"It's one thing to run the equipment," he said, "and another to make a program, and another to make a program someone wants to watch."

Derry has taught the three-year-old program for two years. His wife, Pat, teaches music and makes educational films in Madonna's television studio for student teachers.

"I love it," Derry said of his work. "It's fantastic. I like teaching. I like television. I like photography, and I have a very wonderful wife who understands it and likes it too."

"I feel people in the industry should teach this type of course. When I was in school, by the time I learned what was going on, the material was already two or three years old."

Television production courses are not usually offered at colleges the size of Madonna, Derry said.

Tzareff of Westland; stage manager Mary James of Plymouth; producer Diane Holden of Livonia; and camera operator Bill Kuykendall of Detroit.

Hypermarket:

General store of the future

"Hypermarket is a trade term. There are hypermarkets in Europe and one or two in Canada, but there's no standard definition for them, just as there's no definition for a discount market."

Speaking was Chuck Westra, an executive of Meijer Inc., the Grand Rapids-based firm that will open metropolitan Detroit's first hypermarket next Tuesday morning at Ford and Canton Center roads in Canton Township.

He sat in the snack bar area of the Thrifty Acres store as some of the 600 new employees stocked more than 100,000 items of goods and mastered the 59 new cash registers.

IN A WAY, a hypermarket is a lot like the old-fashioned general store, Westra admitted, but on a more stupendous scale.

"What we've done is apply supermarket principles — self-service, adjacent parking, central checkout — to general merchandise. You go to a large store where it's all available — clothes for the kids, shotgun shells, food, household needs — all in one stop and one checkout."

Another hypermarket feature is high stacking of merchandise in bins and original cartons. Says senior vice president Earl Holton: "This puts more goods out front and less in the back rooms. Reduced handling costs mean that lower prices are passed onto the customer."

Well-known in outstate Michigan, Meijer is a new name to the Detroit area. The 25 Meijer Thrifty Acres stores and supermarkets in 13 cities are known for being price-competitive.

THE NEW Canton store is the firm's largest — 20 acres of land, 250,000 square feet of shopping area (the equivalent of 4.3 football fields), oversized parking spaces for 1,300 cars in a well-lighted lot and landscaping.

Company officials decline to say what it's all worth. An informed ballpark figure on the land is $400,000 to $500,000. Township officials figure the construction cost at nearly $3.7 million. The equipment and the 100,000 items in the inventory would have to be added to that.

In time, a "Meijerblend" self-service gasoline station will be added. The Canton store is the first of several Meijer Inc. is planning for the metropolitan Detroit area. Next, says John Stephenson, the firm's real estate specialist, will be a Royal Oak store. The firm already owns the corner of Eight Mile and Haggerty roads in Northville Township.

STEPHENSON said the firm consulted planning and land use figures from the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments and the Wayne and Oakland county planning commissions before building.

Stephenson got acquainted with the public officials in Canton, the fastest growing area in the seven-county region, and by driving around came to realize that Ford Road was the major east-west thoroughfare, not only through Canton but through Westland and Garden City.

Paul Fried owned the site and had a gas station on the corner. He had his own idea about a shopping center, Stephenson recalls, until Meijer stepped into the picture.

Stephenson noted the Meijer store will have Canton's first barber shop. Coincidentally, the firm's founder, Hendrik Meijer, was operating a barber shop in Greenville in 1934 when he decided to open a grocery store.

FRED MEIJER, son of founder Hendrik and president today, instills a people-conscious philosophy in his executives and employees.

Earlier Meijer Thrifty Acres had balconies with small shops. Besides, said Meijer, "I really had an emotional attachment to balconies."

But he found that handicapped persons were unable to get to balconies, so Meijer put the new store all on one floor. Ramps make it easier for persons in wheelchairs to move around. Drinking fountains and telephones have been lowered. Restrooms have extra wide doors and special facilities for wheelchairs.

Motorized as well as manually-operated wheelchairs are available for customers at the courtesy desk. Special parking spaces for the handicapped are reserved near the entrance.

When you meet the president, you call him "Fred." Says Westra, whose own nametag describes the director of advertising as "Chuck W.," "There's not a 'Mr.' on any of our signs or calling cards."

Chuck quotes Fred: "If I were to lose all the buildings and inventory or all my people, I've no doubt I would come back faster if I could keep the people."

While Meijer Inc. is a family-held company, Fred stresses that it's an equal opportunity employer, and happily so. "None of us picked our parents. You can get any job you're qualified for," He says "qualifiable," not just "qualified."

WESTRA SAID the firm keeps track not only of what its competitors are charging but of what they are paying their employees. A survey showed Meijer personnel among the best paid in the business.

THE GROCERY section has both national and private brands, which have to meet the specifications of the best national brands.

Clothing departments offer garments and footwear for the family, including infants. Housewares, sporting goods, boats, camping supplies, automotive and recreational vehicle supplies, bicycles, appliances, jewelry, photo supplies, TVs and stereos, stationery, school supplies, pet and garden supplies, crafts, cosmetics, cards, books, — the main store carries them all.

In addition, there are such special service departments as shoe repair, watch repair, beauty salon, the Purple Cow ice cream shop, a snack bar and donut shop.

The courtesy desk, besides handling returns and refunds, also dispenses postage stamps and money orders and provides laundry and dry cleaning service. Several charge cards are accepted.

Just like the old general store. But when it's bigger than four football fields, you call it a hypermarket.

A CUDDLY GORILLA looks out at shoppers from the Kiddie Oasis, where youngsters can watch television and play with toys. A penny pony ride is also available.

It's a good weekend for bazaar shopping

Needles have been flashing furiously for months in preparation for the big church bazaar time coming this weekend.

At least half a dozen churches in this area are planning sales the weekend of Nov. 15 to 17, and several in surrounding communities will be offering wares too.

The Ladies' Parish Service Guild of All Saints Lutheran Church, Joy and Newburgh in Livonia, will put on their first craft boutique Friday from 6 to 9 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

As far back as June, the women began meeting every Thursday evening for workshops so all could learn new crafts.

As a result, the boutique will feature a needle-nook full of handmade purses, puppets and ponchos. It also will include a straw flower hut with baskets and vases of straw flower arrangements and a plaque place with papier tole figures.

A Christmas corner will include in its display pine cone wreaths and personalized stockings.

OTHER AREA BAZAARS will offer assorted specialties.

A pantry corner will be one of the highlights of the arts and crafts boutique and bake sale Saturday, Nov. 16 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Pilgrim United Church of Christ, 36075 W. Seven Mile, Livonia.

There will also be more than 30 tables manned by individual craftsmen and containing a variety of items.

A harvest dinner and bazaar will be held Friday and Saturday, Nov. 15 and 16 in St. David Episcopal Church, 27500 Marquette, Garden City.

Sponsored by the Episcopal Church women, it will feature a turkey dinner, by reservation, Friday evening at $2 for adults and $1 for children.

Sloppy Joes and hot dogs will be served at lunch on both days of the event, which will take place from 11:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Friday and from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday.

For sale at the bazaar will be white elephant items, Christmas gifts, handicrafts, homemade cakes breads and candies.

THE FIRST UNITED Presbyterian Church, 701 Church, Plymouth will also hold a bazaar this weekend with a stationery shop, a fun room, a Fifth Avenue shop, photo studio, teen project and book shelves containing both books and paperbacks.

Other bazaar shops will be an open cupboard, sweet shop, and a nosegay and candle shop plus one selling Thai jewelry.

On Friday shopping will take place from 5 p.m. with a roast beef dinner served from 5:30-7 p.m. at a cost of $3 for adults and $1.50 for children under 12.

On Saturday the bazaar will be open from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. with lunch served at 12 noon. The French tea room will open at 1 p.m.

Chairman of the event is Carolyn Loesch and co-chairmen are Helen Shontz and Blanche Bauman.

The First United Methodist Church, 45201 N. Territorial, Plymouth, will hold a holiday boutique Friday, Nov. 15 from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Lunch will be served from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and a roast beef dinner will take place from 5-7 p.m. The cost is $3 to those 13 and over, $1.75 for those from six to 12, with those five and under served free.

More than 50 artists and craftsmen will show their paintings, sculpture, china, jewelry, needlework, pottery and woodcraft at a holiday craft fair, Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 16 and 17 in the gym of St. Mary High School on St. Marys between Grand River and Fenkell, Detroit.

Lay witnesses group visits Riverside Park

Riverside Park Church of God, 11771 Newburgh, Livonia, is welcoming 10 lay witnesses for a special weekend of sharing Friday, Nov. 15 to Sunday, Nov. 16.

The witnesses, all laymen, will come from various churches in Michigan and neighboring states at their own expense.

In the weekend sessions, they will share personal insights of spiritual renewal found as church workers.

On Saturday there will be morning coffee group discussions in the homes of Riverside members and luncheons for men's and women's groups in Sweden House, 8525 Telegraph, Dearborn Heights.

Evening dinner at the church will be followed by singing and sharing groups.

What Does the Future Hold for YOU and for ALL MEN?

This question has been asked by generations. Men now almost believe it can't be answered. Even men and women of faith often ask-

- WHY DOESN'T GOD DO SOMETHING?
- DO YOU KNOW why Israel has become a nation?
- DO YOU KNOW that the world is on the threshold of a Golden Age?
- DO YOU KNOW that the Bible is a time-clock that history is happening right on the Bible's preplanned Schedule?

These and other questions are answered in the FREE book, "The Divine Plan of the Ages." Write for your copy:

"The Yellow Pages is the best prescription for curing profit problems!"

"We've used the Yellow Pages since we opened our pharmacy in East Detroit, and we keep using it. We like to keep our name before a constantly changing public," claims Joseph A. Sokal, Hennessy Pharmacy, 20803 Brock, East Detroit. "One year we used a coded telephone number in our ad and received approximately 100 calls per week on that line alone. Almost our entire advertising budget goes for the Yellow Pages."

"The Yellow Pages is a great friend to have—especially when a businessman is just getting started," says Michael Richardson, Dependable Battery Co., 13550 Dix Toledo Road, Southgate. "Two years ago we opened our battery shop and placed an ad in the Yellow Pages hoping to draw retail business to supplement our wholesale accounts. You can imagine our surprise when we got a large wholesale account that had located us through the Yellow Pages! Wholesale or retail, our Yellow Pages ad more than pays for itself."

"When I bought Warren Rustproofing, one of the first things I did was increase the Yellow Pages advertising. We are now in five different directories. We don't advertise in any other medium because we don't need to. Approximately 75% of our new business comes from the Yellow Pages. Our faith in the Yellow Pages has been rewarded. Although this year and the one before were supposed to be slow in retail sales, we've done fine."
Jim Malget, Warren Rustproofing, 25600 Van Dyke, Center Line.

"A little less than two years ago, I decided to open my own driver training school," explains Peggy Ostro, ABC Driving School, 542 West 8 Mile Road, Ferndale. "As quickly as I could, I took out a large ad in the Yellow Pages. Why? Because it's the best source of business I know. At least 90% of my business, and perhaps more during my first year, could be traced directly to my Yellow Pages ad. The Yellow Pages is the most efficient advertising medium I know."

Helping us to help you. ACD

Have you called the Observer & Eccentric to place a classified ad, and gotten a "busy" signal? If you have, we're sorry. We don't like to keep our customers waiting. But it happens sometimes, because we do business with more than 155,500 families. That's why we installed a special Bell Telephone System. It's called the Automatic Call Distributor, and it's designed to promote smoother and faster handling of calls to the classified advertising department.

It means that when you contact us to place a classified ad, your call will automatically be directed to one of the 19 friendly advisors who handle classified ads for the 11 Observer & Eccentric Newspapers. The "A-C-D" system will put you in direct touch with an ad-taker who is available, allowing you to do business quickly and efficiently.

So -- be ready for prompt service, because our new telephone unit can handle up to 28 simultaneous calls. And, if you should happen to be caller number 29, the ACD will hold your call for a moment, and then give it to the first available ad-taker. The classified advertising numbers -- 522-0900 in Wayne County and 644-1070 in Oakland County -- will remain the same.

We like ACD, because it means that our classified service to you will be improved. When you have pets to sell or homes to rent, our ad-takers will now be able to reach you faster, and offer you the greatest possible courtesy and efficiency. With our new, high-speed equipment, we'll be able to meet the needs of special situations ... your needs ... when you're calling us. And that's what quality service is all about. ACD... Police training's an ongoing process

By MAURIE WALKER

The training of law enforcement personnel is a never-ending thing.

From the time a person joins a police agency and continuing throughout his career, training is a vital part of the job.

With law enforcement becoming more scientific, more highly technical, community leaders have recognized the need for an institute—a place where all facets of law enforcement could meet to discuss common problems and a place to provide training, research and technical assistance necessary to assist in finding these solutions.

A LITTLE more than a year ago, law enforcement agencies in Wayne County were provided with a Criminal Justice Institute.

JAMES GARBER of Plymouth Township functions as executive director of the program to train law enforcement personnel from Plymouth, Livonia and Redford. (Staff photo)

It actually started in June 1972 when General Motors Corporation donated a six-story building at 6001 Cass, Detroit, to Wayne State University.

The building was subject to a long-term lease, now held by the Criminal Justice Institute at a fee of $1 a year.

In September of last year, the City of Plymouth, at the suggestion of Police Chief Timothy Ford, entered into a contract under the Urban Cooperation Act of 1967, thus creating the institute. Since then, other agencies have added their names to that contract, including Livonia and Redford.

Named executive director of the institute was James Garber of Plymouth Township. Included in the board of directors is Livonia Police Chief Robert Turner, Chief Ford, and Wayne County Sheriff William Lucas.

BESIDES providing training for police officers, the institute offers classes for attorneys, judges, probation and parole agents and to other persons and agencies desiring to avail themselves of the institute's services.

A federal grant got the institute started, Garber said.

"We have received other grants since then," Garber added.

Recruit courses offered to police departments throughout the county, are financed by the institute which earns money from outside programs such as its production of training films and courses other than those for recruits.

"We will graduate 800 new police officers this year, men who come from practically every police department in the county."

The Wayne County Association of Chiefs of Police, of which Plymouth's Chief Ford is president, formulated the contract between local communities and the Institute which each of the police chiefs presented to their governing bodies.

Upon approval by various local governments, cities and townships became eligible to use the training center, not only for basic but advance police training.

While the Wayne County communities do not pay for the basic training, they do pay for executive management courses and advanced training courses of officers.

Private firms also pay for the training of their security guards, Garber said.

"Under terms of the grants, we must accept recruits from any police department in Michigan. However, our applications so far have all been from Wayne County."

Madonna sets winter term registration

Winter term registration at Madonna College will be held Nov. 18-22 from 9-11 a.m., 1-5 p.m. and 7-9 p.m. Saturday registration on Nov. 23 will be held from 9-11 a.m. and 1-3 p.m.

The term (Term II) begins Jan. 8. Many classes are scheduled for evening and Saturday hours to accommodate students who are employed and must attend Madonna part-time.

OPPORTUNITIES for students to acquire college credit at home will be provided in several courses on television, in home study and independent study.

Television courses to be shown on WJBK-TV are "Music of the Romantic Era" and "The Near East in Modern Times."

An interdisciplinary course on the history of science as a history of man, "The Ascent of Man," will be shown on Channel 56. The course was produced by Time-Life Films and Little Brown.

Information about registration, admission and courses may be obtained by calling Madonna College.

New students are still being admitted for TERM II, and may register for classes as late as Jan. 3.

170,000 square foot building, are nine class rooms, one set up as an actual court room where "rookie" officers are taught the difficult job of testifying in court.

Another two rooms portray crime scenes where officers are taught to gather evidence and look for suspects.

Closed circuit television, with a complete studio, occupies a portion of the building as does a well-equipped gym where officers are taught self-defense by judo experts.

"It has cost approximately $600,000 to renovate the building so far and we are not finished yet."

Classes are held daily. The teachers are officers with particular knowledge in various aspects of law enforcement.

"These officers are borrowed from the various police departments through the county. They are paid by the institute through their own department, thus they don't lose any of their regular benefits."

What started with a $1.6 million federal grant, has now grown into an institute, "unlike anything in the country," according to Garber.

"Without this building and the support of the police chiefs and their communities, there would be no Criminal Justice Institute."

Besides turning out recruits, we will have given refresher courses to about 2,100 officers this year."

THE INSTITUTE'S budget for this year is set at about $4 million, according to Garber.

"Recently we added arson instruction, not only for police but firemen. Other classes are now in the planning stages."

Wayne State University has provided class space for their criminal justice courses, part of the "rent" for the building.

"This institute is something needed for a long time. Law enforcement agencies from other parts of the country have visited us to see how we operate."

Institutes such as this one may one day spread across the nation," he added.

Many birds once common in area

John Tibbits, one of the earliest settlers in Plymouth, wrote that birds common in the area, in the early days of the community, included the eagle, hawk, owl, crane, partridge, duck, wild goose, raven, turkey, turkey-buzzard, and a variety of smaller birds.

Even in 1874, when Tibbits wrote, the turkey-buzzard was becoming scarce in the area. "The turkey-buzzard, so common in those early days," Tibbits wrote, "is seldom or never seen now. This bird resembles the wild turkey more nearly than any other bird, though by no means so large. It is not a bird of prey, but, like the raven, lives on carrion."

"It is a powerful bird on the wing, and soars to great heights, sailing seemingly for hours without movement of the wings. The quills are very valuable for writing purposes, and the possession of one was considered a treasure, inasmuch as with careful usage one would last through a school term of three or four months."

Keith K. Kreg, general curator of the Detroit Zoo, told me recently that the turkey-buzzard, one of the best soaring species in the United States, is no longer found in Wayne County. It does occasionally pass over the area, however; and in recent years Mr. Kreg saw a turkey-buzzard nest near Howell. In one of the bird's favorite nesting places, a hole in a log on the ground. Although called a buzzard in America, the turkey-buzzard is actually a vulture. It resembles the turkey because, like the turkey, it has a red head and neck which are bare of feathers.

IN ADDITION to destroying predators harmful to livestock, the early settlers killed turkeys, deer and other wildlife for food—but, unfortunately, gave little thought to conservation. In Michigan, in the 19th century, there was practically no limit on how much wildlife a sportsman might take. Hunters came here from Maine to Texas to slaughter birds by the millions.

An 1859 Michigan law, intended to conserve game by establishing closed seasons, was rarely enforced. The appointment of a State Fish and Game Warden in 1887 did little to help. Local pressure kept officials from enforcing laws which might have prevented the extermination of birds such as the wild turkey, which became extinct in Michigan in 1890, and the passenger pigeon, which became extinct in 1900.

The usual mode of hunting turkeys in the Plymouth area in the early days was described by Tibbits:

"Two or three persons would proceed cautiously through the woods till they came upon a flock, then suddenly fire at random amongst them, the object being to scatter them in all directions. When thus scattered they will invariably return to the same spot to get together again, the old ones coming first to call their young together."

"THE HUNTERS, hid in some secluded place, with their 'turkey calls' ready for use, would wait patiently for the return of the old birds. These turkey-calls consist of the hollow bone of the turkey's wing, and, in the mouth of an experienced hunter can be made to exactly imitate the piping sound of the mother bird when calling her brood together."

"Soon the maternal notes of the old bird are heard, and the hunters respond with their 'calls,' luring them on to certain destruction. After the old birds are killed, the young ones fall an easy prey to the unerring aim of the skillful marksman."

"The flesh of the wild turkey," Tibbits continues, "is esteemed a great luxury, and one of the most delicious meals I think I ever ate was made from steak cut from the breast of a young turkey, fried in butter, and par-taken after a hard day's hunt in which a companion and myself killed seven large fine birds."

Aside from the turkey-buzzard and the wild turkey, other birds mentioned by Tibbits which are no longer found in this area include the raven, the crane and the partridge. Keith Kreg tells me there are still some partridges in Oakland County, that an eagle is occasionally seen in the area, and that geese are coming back. Red-tailed, sparrow, and broad-winged hawks are still seen in Wayne County and owls are still with us.

KREG SAYS two birds that fell victim to DDT are now making a comeback. The blue bird is being seen again in Oakland County and in the Ann Arbor area. The robin is also on the way back. Kreg says angle worms, which robins love to eat, absorb and store DDT. As few as 15 DDT-laden angle worms spell sure death for the red-breast.

On the brighter side, Kreg reports that there are now many species of birds in the area which did not live here when the pioneers arrived. Among these are the cardinal, the tufted titmouse, the Carolina wren, the mockingbird and the cowbird. These birds moved in after the settlers cleared the land and created an environment in which these species could find food.

The crow, one of those who arrived after the land was cleared, was not, like its relative, the raven, a forest bird. Once plentiful here, the crow was almost eradicated by a practice started in the south of dynamiting huge roosts where up to 100,000 of the birds nested. Kreg tells me that all crows do not fly south, however, and this may have prevented extinction of the species.

IN THIS DAY of emphasis on conservation, Tibbits' report strikes us as callous to the extravagance with which the pioneers squandered the area's bird and animal resources. Generations conditioned by the work of humane societies, and by the growing sense of the interdependence which exists between all living creatures,

Voters elect McCartney to board

James R. McCartney, a Westland resident who is executive director of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce, is the new district seven trustee on the Wayne County Community College (WCCC) Board of Trustees.

McCartney and two others representing districts one and six were elected to fill the posts by Wayne County voters in the Nov. 6 election. They will take office in January 1975 for six-year terms.

McCartney will take over the post held by John R. Ryan of Westland since the inception of the college. Ryan did not seek re-election.

District seven includes Westland and parts of Canton and Redford townships.

McCartney, 37, has been involved with WCCC since its inception, running as a trustee candidate in 1968. He later served as a member of the district seven Citizens Advisory Council and as chairman of the council's subcommittee on community and governmental affairs.

He served on the Wayne County Board of Commissioners from 1970-72.

New audiology program begun

By SUE ROSIEK

PLYMOUTH—The Plymouth Center for Human Development has launched a drive to collect unused hearing aids to help residents who can't afford the expensive but beneficial device.

"We have about 12 residents who wear hearing aids and about 12 more who could use an aid if it was available," says Miss Penny Gorsuch, clinical audiologist at the center.

"The patients who don't have an aid and need one also are either too old to be covered by funds from Division of Services of Crippled Children or don't qualify for Medicaid."

The Plymouth center houses 950 mentally retarded residents. Miss Gorsuch estimates that 5 to 10 percent of those also have some type of hearing impairment.

A HEARING AID won't completely solve a patient's hearing problem, explains Miss Gorsuch, but does help open opportunities for a mentally retarded person.

Because of the high cost of new hearing aids, however, the center can't afford to purchase an aid for every resident who could use one.

A new aid costs between $250 and $350 depending on size, frequency, and conveniences offered, says Miss Gorsuch.

"There are many people who buy new aid models and put the old ones away. Most of these could be used by another person after a thorough cleaning, testing and refitting for an ear mold."

An ear mold costs about $15 says Miss Gorsuch and the center has agreed to absorb this cost.

PERSONS WHO have unused hearing aids they would like to donate should contact with Miss Gorsuch or Peter Schweitzer, director of community relations, at the Plymouth center.

For Miss Gorsuch, obtaining the aids is just the first step of a new audiology project she has started. Also included is an in-service training program for Plymouth center attendants and testing programs for residents and out-patients.

"I want the attendants to have some idea of what a patient with a severe hearing loss can hear with an aid."

Demonstrations in the care and operation of a hearing aid are also planned.

MISS GORSUCH started conducting hearing evaluations on residents when she joined the Plymouth center staff about four months ago.

She was recently awarded an MS in audiology and speech pathology from the University of Michigan.

"I found three aids not being used and am currently using them to diagnose hearing problems and determining what type of equipment each resident could use."

"Hearing evaluations involve testing each patient with an audiometer—an electronic device which emits a range of tones and frequencies. A complete diagnosis indicates what a person can hear and the extent of any hearing damage."

Miss Gorsuch feels the hearing aid project can be a tremendous help in residents' training and hopes hearing will no longer be neglected.

"Audiology—the science of hearing—isn't even in the dictionary," she adds. "That's hard to imagine when you consider the emphasis placed on communication in the world today."

Miss Gorsuch says she plans to expand the project to include out-patients if enough hearing aids are donated.

Down it comes

A PART OF Livonia's history became a pile of bricks and rubble on Newburg at Ann Arbor Road this week when a wrecking company demolished the 52-year-old Newburg School. The Livonia school board, which owned the building and 2.15 acres, said it has no plans now to either erect a new building or sell the land. (Staff photos by Leonard Poger)

Bus garage will have to wait

By MARILYN FITCHETT

PLYMOUTH—What Assistant Supt. for Business Ray Hoedel calls a "stop gap program" may have to solve the district's bus housing and maintenance problem for at least the next few years.

Fire figures going up

PLYMOUTH TOWNSHIP—The township fire department responded to 95 alarms last month, 41 more than for October last year.

Fire Chief James Gignac said that for the first 10 months of this year, his department responded to 724 alarms compared with 587 in the same period of 1973.

False alarms last month totaled four while in the same month last year, there was one false alarm. For the first 10 months of this year, the department received 19 false alarms compared with 10 in the first 10 months of last year.

The department's rescue squad responded to 59 calls last month while in October last year, 37 calls were received.

For the 10 month period, the rescue unit answered 392 alarms compared to 343 in the 1973 period, Gignac said.

In a report to the school board Monday night, Hoedel stated the main priority of the Bus Service Garage Committee as a central facility for the district's 60 vehicles.

Of the plans drawn by the committee last month, Hoedel favors a program which would cover the next three to five years.

"We would be acquiring a self-contained double classroom for office space and add two or three bays to the present maintenance garage," Hoedel said. "The cost would be borne by the building and site fund."

A new facility at a site still to be determined would then have to be built. Hoedel estimated that the double portables would cost the district $20,000-$30,000 with the bay addition close to the $100,000 mark. According to Supt. John Hoben, the district is paying out "premium prices" for repairs because the district does not have a bus hoist.

"We're jobbing out repairs our own mechanics could be making if we had a hoist," he said.

Trustee Thomas Yack, who is a committee member, termed the situation "intolerable."

"I don't really like the stop gap program but it's the best we've been able to come up with."

Two of the proposals cited by the committee would require bonding, and a vote of the people, Hoedel said.

One plan would be to build a new facility from scratch at the Centennial Education Park site with a price tag of $500,000.

The second included acquiring a small industrial shop now for sale along with 4.3 acres of land at a price of $270,000 to $300,000 which does not include the cost of blacktopping and installation of equipment.

DR. JAMES R. GURAL, a Plymouth resident and chairman of the campus counseling center at the Orchard Ridge Campus of Oakland Community College, was recently named to the education committee of the International Association of Counseling Services. The committee of educators from around Michigan will meet to study innovative approaches to counseling. Dr. and Mrs. Gural and their three children live at 15000 Lakewood.

Contest winners

PLYMOUTH—The Plymouth Parks and Recreation Department's third annual Halloween costume and pumpkin carving contest was a great success. Held at the Plymouth Community Cultural Center on Halloween eve, the contest drew 128 contestants in two different categories.

In the costume contest, 5-year-old Holly Brown of 42610 Hammill won first prize out of 73 other children. Second place winner was 6-year-old Scott Magaldi of 6610 Carriage Hills. Third place winner was 10-year-old Tricia Thomas of 7999 Kaiser.

A total of 54 children took part in the pumpkin carving contest with 8-year-old Susan Martinez of 44752 Oregon Trail taking top honors. Finishing second was 8-year-old Linda Sarafian of 616 McKinley. Finishing third was 10-year-old Brian Hastings of 44800 Oregon Trail.

RELOCATING... DOESN'T HAVE TO BE DISLOCATING

We belong to RELO, a national real estate organization whose job it is to relocate you physically without relocating you mentally.

And this we can do. Through our association with RELO, we can help relocate you to at least 6,500 different communities throughout the country.

All you have to do is contact any one of our offices, and we'll take it from there.

But remember one thing. If we can relocate you from coast to coast with a minimum of woe, imagine what we can do anywhere around Detroit and its environs.
